

House Rebuffs Eisenhower on Foreign Aid Bill

Cuts $872 Million
From President's Request for Funds

Washington —(P)— The house has voted 253-126 to take what President Eisenhower called the "reckless risk" of cutting $872 million off his foreign aid money requests.

The senate may restore some of this fund. But the indicators pointed toward a possible three-quarter billion dollar final reduction under the $3,900,000,000 in new money the president originally asked.

House passage yesterday of a $3,078,000,000 appropriations measure handed Eisenhower a stinging rebuff in his drive for "more ammunition to wage the peace." By a 2-1 margin, the house members ignored his contention at a White House news conference that their action would "encourage communist imperialists."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, commenting on reports of the action as a setback to Eisenhower, said:

"The president thinks the country and the free world suffered a serious setback today."

Democrats Unmoved

Eisenhower's personally conducted campaign for more money bore fruit among house Republicans but failed to enlist many Democrats. On a test vote to restore $75 million in defense support funds, 105 Republicans and 60 Democrats voted for the larger amount. However, 74 Republicans and 140 Democrats joined to defeat the proposal.

On the final roll call, 146 Democrats and 107 Republicans voted for passage. Against were 57 Democrats and 69 Republicans.

When the senate appropriations committee takes up the bill next week, it will be operating under an authorization measure which fixed a ceiling nearly $300 million less than Eisenhower's request but still $597 million above the house-passed figure.

Gigantic Iceberg Threatens Ships in Eastern Atlantic

London —(P)— A killer iceberg, a submerged white giant estimated at five miles square in size, was spotted today in the eastern Atlantic.

Emergency radio warnings were broadcast immediately to all trans-Atlantic shipping to watch for the underwater giant. Its jagged edges could rip open a ship.

A Pan American Airliner radioed that it had spotted the iceberg right in the heavily traveled shipping lane some 650 miles west of the northern tip of Ireland.

An admiralty spokesman called the iceberg "a very dangerous menace to Atlantic shipping."

It was reported moving in the warm currents of the gulf stream at about 150 miles a day—a speed of six knots.

19 Believed Dead in Wake Of Iowa Flood

Audubon, Iowa —(P)— Nearly a score of persons, either known to be dead or presumed dead, were listed today as victims of the flood waters of the East Nishnabotna river and its tributaries.

The number of lives taken yesterday when cloudbursts sent the streams rushing violently out of their banks awaited an official check as work of relief and rehabilitation proceeded.

However, officials listed 13 dead and 6 still missing 36 hours after the floods ravaged three towns in this southwest Iowa area.

Property damage was estimated in the millions.

So swift was the rush of the water as it swept houses off their foundations that the body of an unidentified man was carried 50 miles downstream before it was recovered.

Hardest Hit Regions

Towns hardest hit were Audubon, Exira and Hamlin in Audubon county. One resident of Exira, a town of 1,130, estimated that not scarcely a house in the flood area was left on its foundations and some homes simply vanished. The East Nishnabotna, normally a stream 20 to 40 feet wide, cut a swath as wide as the Mississippi river.

From the aid, the landscape was dotted with little lakes and ponds as the swirling waters began to subside.

Some of those who died or were swept away were caught in their homes. Others were trapped in their cars as the water poured down highways.

In Exira, Lee Thompson, 26, was awakened early Wednesday by the town siren. He grabbed his two young children and led his wife through chest deep water to a semi-trailer truck whose driver took Mrs. Thompson and the children to higher ground and safety.

Thompson headed back to a parked gravel truck near his home to give assistance. About a dozen persons, including some youngsters were standing on the truck.

"We men stood on one side of the truck and held the children above the water," he said. "The water submerged the truck. It was at least 12 feet deep."

Harris Sees Attempt to Intimidate Committee

Washington —(P)— Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark) said today mysterious phone calls inquiring into his past have been made in to his constituents during this week's Goldfine hearings.

Harris, is chairman of the house committee investigating relations between Bernard Goldfine and Sherman Adams. Harris told reporters he had heard "rumors" that lawyers and public relations men were trying to intimidate his committee.

Report Castro Order To Release Captives

Broadcast Says Rebel Leader
Didn't Know of Kidnapings

Guantanamo Bay, Cuba —(P)—

A broadcast from the mountain headquarters of rebel leader Fidel Castro has ordered the release of all Americans and Canadians held by rebels in the mountain jungles near here. Five of the 50 kidnaped by bands under Castro's brother Raul were released last night. The broadcast said Castro knew nothing about the kidnaping of 47 Americans and 3 Canadians. "due to difficulties in communications." It said Castro ordered brother Raul to release the men. Raul commands rebels in the northern section of rebellious Oriente province.

The broadcast, monitored in Puerto Rico, said:

"We know they (the captives) actually were not taken as hostages but only as observers so they could see how (President Fulgencio) Batista's forces kill Cuban civilians using arms furnished by the United States."

A speedy return of more kidnaped North Americans was expected here after U. S. consul Park Wollum came out of the hills with five captives in a U. S. navy helicopter yesterday, returning with five of the twelve engineers seized by the rebels at the Moa Mining company in northeastern Cuba last Thursday.

Stays in Hills

Darkness halted the flights but the helicopter was readied to resume operation today.

In all the rebels kidnaped 47 Americans and 3 Canadians and spirited them into the mountains of Oriente from which Castro has carried on his guerrilla campaign. Among those

Fly to Minneapolis to Donate Blood for Boy

Green Bay —(P)— Nine volunteer blood donors flew to Minneapolis and back Wednesday night in donated planes to provide blood needed for a 7-year-old De Pere boy during a complicated heart repair operation today.

Paul Milquet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Milquet, underwent surgery for a congenital heart defect at the University of Minnesota Hospitals.

The service of one aircraft was contributed by the local air field manager, the other by an industrial firm. Other groups have raised $1,350 to help pay costs of hospitalization.

The Wild Rose Story: A Community Grows

Wild Rose, in Waushara county, has transformed unusual community spirit into even more unusual community action.

The story of the tiny village's successful efforts to attract industry, build a park, library, assist tourists and provide recreation for children and adults—its own as well as migrant workers who swarm into the area in the summer—is told in a special feature on Page 5 of today's Post-Crescent.

Probe Rackets In Trucking

Senate Probers Turn Attention to East St. Louis

Washington —(P)— Senate investigators, balked by a series of fifth amendment pleas, took a new tack today in their probe of alleged mobster infiltration of businesses and labor unions.

The senate rackets investigating committee turned its attention to alleged trucking rackets in East St. Louis, Ill., and charges that gangsters have muscled their way into the garment industry in New York and Pennsylvania.

Called to testify were: James Plumeri, a convicted New York labor extortionist.

Russell Buffalino, described by the committee as a gangster operating in Pennsylvania's garment industry. The government is trying to deport Buffalino.

Frank Wortman, reputed head of the remnants of the old Shelton gang in East St. Louis.

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee counsel, said he also expects testimony from Thomas Luchese, an alleged New York hoodlum, and Abe Chait, whom Kennedy termed a major power in the New York garment industry and an associate of gangsters.

U. S. Prisoners of Reds Say They Are Held as Political Hostages

BY SEYMOUR TOPPING

Dresden, East Germany —(P)— "We'll sweat it out as long as it takes."

This pledge came from Maj. George E. Kemper, the senior officer and spokesman for nine U. S. Army men who turned themselves in to East German police June 7 after they got lost on a helicopter flight in West Germany and ran out of gas behind the Iron Curtain. Negotiations for their release are deadlocked.

The soldiers complained at a news conference staged by East German officials yesterday that they are being held as political hostages. "We have Kemper hurriedly asked what been treated courteously," was being done by the United States to obtain their release.

The 43-year-old artillery officer from Escondido, Calif., was able to speak to me alone for only a few minutes at the gray stone villa in Dresden where the men are under arrest.

As East German officials stopped back for picture today after the new conference, Kemper hurriedly asked what been treated courteously," was being done by the United States to obtain their release.

Their only source of information has been East German newspapers.

I told him of state department demands on Russia for their immediate release, of statements by Secretary of State Dulles, of President Eisenhower's interest, and of U. S. refusal to sign an agreement with East Germany which might imply recognition of the red regime.

Suggests Protocol

"That's enough for us," Kemper said. "You can tell them we'll sweat it out as long as it takes." His lean, tense face broke into a grin.

Speaking for the other seven officers and one sergeant, Kemper said, "We are soldiers and we can stay here indefinitely, but we want to know what is going on."

"They are holding us as political hostages. We are being used as tools. We are not being treated as soldiers."

Paper Gaining New Stature in State Industry

Provides 21 Per Cent
More Manufacturing Jobs Than in 1947

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The paper and allied products industries of the state have risen to new importance in the manufacturing economy of Wisconsin during the last decade.

Total manufacturing employment in the industries rose 21 per cent since 1947, the state industrial commission reported today, and now has the highest ratio to total manufacturing employment in the long history of the paper making trades.

During the same period general manufacturing gained only 4.8 per cent in the state. Nearly 10 per cent of total factory jobs in the state are now attributed to the making of paper and allied products, the commission said in its monthly Wisconsin labor market survey.

38,600 Employed

Total employment in those lines in May was put at 38,600. The total was down slightly from the preceding year.

In its general report, the commission said that all manufacturing employment in the state for May, including canning, accounted for 301,000 jobs, a reduction of 10.9 per cent from the same month of the previous year. Wages continued to rise, with a weekly average of $87.67 reported for May of this year, against $85.59 at the same time last year. Average weekly earnings in the paper and allied products lines amounted to $92.33 this year, against $88.55 last year.

No Mass UAR Aid To Rebel Forces

United Nations, N.Y. —(P)— Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld declared today he had found no evidence of any mass infiltration of United Arab Republic forces into strife-torn Lebanon.

Lebanon's pro-western president, Camille Chamoun, repeatedly has charged that massive intervention by the U.A.R. is threatening peace in the Middle East. It was on this ground he called for U.N. action.

Hammarskjöld's remark was made at a news conference.

He did not say how much help if any has been reaching the Lebanese rebels from outside. It was understood, however, that the U.N. watchdog team in Lebanon would report later today that at least some U.A.R. aid was reaching the rebel forces.

Acknowledges He Gave Many Christmas Presents; Questioned About $750,000

Washington —(P)— Bernard Goldfine acknowledged today making what he called Christmas present payments to numerous White House and congressional employees in this and previous administrations. But he denied a suggestion that this may explain the mysterious disposition of three-quarters of a million dollars.

The Boston industrialist refused to give house investigators his records on the $750,000 of checks drawn on funds of his enterprises but never cashed.

Goldfine contended the matter of the checks was not relevant to the committee's investigation of his relations with Sherman Adams, and the treatment of Goldfine businesses by federal regulatory agencies.

Goldfine said his Christmas present payments to White House and congressional employees were of the $25 variety.

"At Christmas time these are all checks that we send to some poor workers," he said.

Robert W. Lishman, counsel to the investigating committee headed by Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark) exploded the payments bomb soon after Goldfine took the witness chair for his second day of testimony.

Lishman gave Goldfine a list of 37 people he said had gotten payments. Then the committee attorney brought in the matter of the three-quarters of a million dollars of outstanding checks against funds of Goldfine businesses.

Lishman suggested they may have gone to federal employees "who may have been too bashful to get them cashed."

Goldfine, 67-year-old textile magnate, said only a small portion of that money went for what he called the Christmas payments.

The fact that the checks are outstanding — some of them for years—was brought out earlier in the hearings.

Checks Good Indefinitely

They are cashier's checks or else bank treasurer's checks, and are good indefinitely, Lishman said they were good until the bank folded, differing from personal checks which become invalid if not cashed within a year.

The first name mentioned on the list of those getting payments from Goldfine was that of Eugene T. Kinnaly, administrative assistant to Rep. Mc Cormack (Mass), the house Democratic leader.

Goldfine said his largest gift had gone to Kinnaly, and that he had known Kinnaly for years.

Kinnaly told a reporter the only gift he ever received from Goldfine was a box of fruit and food last Christmas.

"I have never received one red cent from Goldfine or from anybody else as gifts," Kinnaly said.

Completes Statement

Goldfine started his second day on the stand by finishing the last three pages of a 25-page statement he began reading yesterday.

Then subcommittee Chairman Harris asked Goldfine for his public explanation of why gifts to Adams were deducted as business expenses.

Goldfine read a statement issued last night to the press in which he said it was his accountant, not he, who had made out the tax returns.

One of the items for Adams use, an Oriental rug, was bought at Macy's department store across the street from

Dulles, De Gaulle to Talk on Testing Ban

Secretary of State Expected to Urge French Premier to Support Efforts on Agreement With Russia

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington — Secretary of State Dulles is expected to urge French Premier Charles de Gaulle this week to support efforts to work out with Russia a possible ban on nuclear weapons testing.

The United States itself has not decided firmly whether to seek a test suspension agreement, but preliminary technical talks on the possibility are now under way at Geneva.

The problem of what to do about a test suspension is likely to be the most difficult of the wide ranging issues which Dulles will discuss on a flying trip to the French capital beginning tonight.

His meeting with De Gaulle will be the first high level American contact with the French leader since he took power last month.

Topics of Talks
Officials said that the Dulles-De Gaulle talks will cover France's persistent economic plight marked by a shortage of foreign exchange, the Middle East crisis with emphasis on Lebanon, the North African troubles centering around Algeria, relations with Russia particularly as they involve prospects for a summit conference, and the problem of cooperation in the field of atomic energy uses.

It is on the nuclear issue and specifically the question of suspending tests that the most serious differences could arise. France has been reported at the threshold of developing its own nuclear weapons and becoming the world's fourth atomic power — along with the United States, Britain and Russia.

Atomic weapons, however, cannot be developed without the least explosions such as the big three in this field have already carried out. The Eisenhower administration undertook to meet this problem by proposing to share U.S. nuclear weapons secrets with its allies.

Restricts Exchange
Congress passed — and Eisenhower signed yesterday — a bill giving the administration much of the authority it asked. But congress wrote into the bill restrictions which effectively restricted the results of weapons tests and other such highly secret information to Great Britain.

One of Dulles' handicaps in dealing with De Gaulle on this issue, therefore, is that the United States is in a position of favoring Britain above the other allies.

Dulles is expected to argue that there is a history of U.S.-British cooperation going back to the early days of World War II in atomic weapons development and also that Britain is so far along that the United States stands to benefit from an exchange of weapons knowledge.

He may be able to hold out to De Gaulle, officials said, the prospect of future U.S. cooperation which might be developed in the light of France's own future progress.

But he may also argue that French interests would be better served by concentrating on the development of peaceful uses of atomic power and the avoidance of the enormous costs involved in the plants and equipment necessary for large scale production of atomic weapons.

Charles Thomas New President of Trans World Line

Los Angeles — Charles S. Thomas, former secretary of the navy, has been named president of Trans World Airlines.

Industrialist Howard Hughes, who has a controlling interest in the line, announced that Thomas had been elected president of TWA at a board of directors' meeting.

Thomas, who lives now in Los Angeles, succeeds Warren Lee Pierson, who became acting president of the line when Carter Burgess resigned last December after policy disputes with Hughes.

Thomas, a naval aviator in World War I, was special assistant to navy Secretary James Forrestal in World War II and was navy secretary for three years, starting in 1954.

Afghanistan Head Says Standard of Living Poor in His Country

San Francisco — Prime Minister Sardar Mohammed Daoud says the standard of living in his little communist-bordered country of Afghanistan is "worse than it has been in any age."

"We do not feel ashamed," he said Wednesday night at a reception in his honor.

Daoud said Afghanistan's low living standard was due solely to the fact the country has been opposing steadfastly all British, Persian and Russian efforts to dominate it.

"It is not the result of anything except our struggle for freedom and independence," he said proudly.

He is on a good will tour.

Aid Pours in For Family In Trouble

Sun Valley, Calif. — Many well-wishers have brightened the lives of Lyle Hill, his wife Virginia and their eight children.

They were so destitute that Hill and his wife talked of putting 20-month-old Mike out for adoption. Two older girls ran away last Sunday to prevent it, taking Mike on a 28-hour trek through the San Fernando valley and Hollywood.

News of their exploit brought offers of help to Hill, an unemployed carpenter. He has been offered three jobs.

The mailman Wednesday brought the family 100 letters, many containing gifts of cash. Among callers were three youngsters from Westwood, near Beverly Hills, who brought $26.18 they collected in their neighborhood.

A church pastor brought food and clothes for the children. Five of the children went to stay temporarily with neighbors. Among them were Sandra, 16, and Genevieve, 13, the sisters who started everything by running away.

Hill hopes to find a bigger home — their rented residence has only one bedroom — and bring the family back together. Wherever the home is, said Hill, Mike will stay there.

It was extra hot for Jesse Spaldings, 35, in New York Wednesday. Clad only in shorts, he dangles from a rope lowered from the roof of a building. Police persuaded him to halt and return to his third floor perch. When you get that hot, they said, you might wind up in the cooler. (AP Wirephoto)

Transformer Blast Cuts Electric Power to City

Cause Not Determined but Effects on Modern Society Clear in Kearny, N. J.

Kearny, N. J. — A 25-ton transformer exploded into flames here Wednesday, leaving parts of metropolitan North Jersey without electric power for up to an hour and a half.

The fire cut off power to 400,000 customers and caused widespread delays in train service.

A spokesman for the Public Service Electric and Gas company said the fire at an outdoor switching station near the Hackensack river destroyed the transformer but that damage was limited to equipment there. There were no injuries.

Cause Not Determined
Cause of the blaze was not determined but its effects in a modern society were all too obvious.

The power went off at 3:47 in the afternoon.

At that instant, trains stopped, stranding thousands of New York and New Jersey commuters. The delays ranged from a minute to an hour.

Some people were caught between floors in elevators that suddenly came to a halt.

Traffic lights went out, and police had to direct rush hour traffic by hand.

Air-conditioners and electric fans stopped even as the mercury soared to 96 on the hottest day of the year in New Jersey.

Movie houses closed their doors when they could neither entertain nor cool their patrons.

Plants Close
Almost all major industrial plants in the area were forced to shut down for the day.

Employees were also sent home for the day from many businesses that were unable to function without the use of electric typewriters, cash registers, adding machines and other electrical equipment.

The navy supply depot in Bayonne switched to emergency generators to maintain the normal 5-degree-below-zero temperature in its vast food lockers. The depot supplies perishables to the Atlantic fleet.

The power failure cut off water to several South Bergen county towns served by the Hackensack Water company.

Children Trapped in Freezer Rescued Minutes From Death

Marinette — Two children trapped in an unused food freezer were rescued — perhaps only minutes away from death — when their plight was discovered by a man interested in purchasing the freezer.

The man responsible for the rescue, Henry Herson of Menominee, Mich., had stopped at Owen Brown's tavern at nearby Portfield to look at the freezer Brown offered for sale. He decided to have a beer first, then changed his mind and went to Brown's garage.

Opening the door of one compartment of the freezer, Herson found Brown's 6-year-old son, Jeff lying inside. The boy raised his head, gasped for breath and lost consciousness. Herson took the boy to the tavern living quarters and directed others to call a rescue squad from Marinette. Brown then discovered that his daughter, Teresa, 4, was missing. Brown and Herson ran back to the garage and found the girl unconscious in the other compartment of the freezer. The rescue squad revived both children.

Herson decided he didn't want to buy the freezer after all.

Steinle Says He Has Good Chance To Win in Fall

Milwaukee — Roland J. Steinle, party-endorsed candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, says he believes he has "a marvelous chance to win" next fall.

Steinle voiced that opinion at a news conference at Madison Wednesday after the former state supreme court justice filed his nomination papers with the secretary of state.

To a newspaperman's question as to whether he would bring personalities into the campaign, Steinle said Walter Reuther, AFL-CIO president, "will be one of the principal targets," and Charles Schultz, state CIO president, would be another.

Also filing nomination papers Wednesday were: State Treasurer Dena Smith, a Republican who is serving out the unexpired term of her late husband, Warren; Christ Seraphim, Milwaukee, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general; and Roman B. Blenski, Milwaukee, a Democratic candidate for congress in the Fourth district.

Claims Former Football Star Killed Partner

Prosecutor Asserts Blood Splattered Six Feet Up Walls

Tokyo — A Japanese prosecutor charged today that former Yale football star Joseph P. Crowley inflicted such a severe, fatal beating upon Connecticut businessman T. A. D. Jones, Jr. that blood was splattered six feet up the walls of their hotel suite.

Prosecutor Kenjiro Furukawa made the accusations as three black-robed Japanese judges began the trial of Crowley, 48, on manslaughter charges.

Jones, 45, Crowley's brother-in-law and son of the late Yale football great T. A. D. Jones, was found dead May 8 following a night-long drinking spree with Crowley.

The two men, who were business associates in New Haven, Conn., had come to Japan to buy an oil tanker. Frederick M. Kissinger of Brandywine, Md., who accompanied them, was cleared of suspicion and returned to the United States.

Crowley, bespectacled and outwardly calm, listened intently as the indictment was read. Then in a firm, loud voice he entered a plea of innocent, saying, "I deny I had anything to do with it."

After the prosecution statement the court adjourned until July 8, when the prosecution will call its first witnesses.

Furukawa said Crowley's pajamas were smeared with blood and that he tried to hide a bruised left hand when police questioned him about Jones' death. He charged that Crowley inflicted 31 separate injuries on Jones and said that the latter died from severe blows by a blunt object to the left side of his head.

He also claimed that Crowley gave a Japanese physician who attended Jones before he died a "reward" of 360,000 yen ($1,000). This point was not explained further, however.

The prosecution statement declared:

"The accused . . . refused entry to his suite to hotel employees after (Jones was injured) . . . he strongly objected to a physician's assertion for the need of an autopsy . . ."

"Hotel employees who cleaned the room . . . observed considerable amounts of blood on the walls, curtains and carpet. Also an ice container was on the floor broken in two and an ice pitcher was bent. There was blood as high as 175 centimeters (70 inches) from the floor on the walls."

Rebels, Troopers Duel For Control of Road Southeast of Beirut

Government Forces Claim Capture Of Between 500, 1,000 Tribesmen

Beirut, Lebanon — Rebels launched a counter-attack today at the main east-west highway from Beirut to Damascus and dueling for control of another road supplying government forces fighting southeast of Beirut.

In the northern port of Tripoli government troops surrounded between 500 and 1,000 rebels who hoisted white flags Wednesday. The government commander said some of the rebels already had surrendered there.

The attack on the east-west highway began Wednesday night when Druze mountaineers of Socialist Kamal Jumblatt seized a hillside overlooking the resort town of Alep. From Alep the capital of Beirut can be seen five miles downhill.

Luxurious Villas
Witnesses said the rebels by early today had occupied the section of Alep where the most luxurious villas are located. From that position they began to fire on the road south from Alep to Kabr Chemoule, where government forces for two days have been firing heavily on rebel positions in the hills overlooking the Beirut international airport.

Traffic was halted until government armored cars shot their way through. By mid-morning, the security forces had opened up with heavy guns and silenced the rebel positions, at least temporarily. Two jet fighters strafed the rebels near Alep.

The east-west highway, Lebanon's main artery for trade with the interior which is the economic backbone of the commercial nation, was still open.

The action around Alep was part of a continuing battle which began Monday with the rebel drive toward the international airport. The attack by the lightly armed rebels was turned back but they have hung on tenaciously in the rugged hills against government forces equipped with artillery and armored cars and supported by jet fighters, plus irregulars supporting the pro-western government of President Camille Chamoun.

The toughest resistance to the government has come in Tripoli, where the rebellion broke out May 10. Army officers there disagreed whether the shaky truce might be a significant break in the rebellion.

Some officers seemed to think the rebels were showing signs of weakening. Rebels in Tripoli's port area obviously were running out of ammunition after troops cut their supply lines.

The army commander said his forces had taught the rebels in the area "a good lesson" and some of them already had given up their arms.

Rebels, Troopers Duel For Control of Road Southeast of Beirut

Government Forces Claim Capture Of Between 500, 1,000 Tribesmen

Beirut, Lebanon — Rebels launched a counter-attack today at the main east-west highway from Beirut to Damascus and dueling for control of another road supplying government forces fighting southeast of Beirut.

In the northern port of Tripoli government troops surrounded between 500 and 1,000 rebels who hoisted white flags Wednesday. The government commander said some of the rebels already had surrendered there.

The attack on the east-west highway began Wednesday night when Druze mountaineers of Socialist Kamal Jumblatt seized a hillside overlooking the resort town of Alep. From Alep the capital of Beirut can be seen five miles downhill.

Luxurious Villas
Witnesses said the rebels by early today had occupied the section of Alep where the most luxurious villas are located. From that position they began to fire on the road south from Alep to Kabr Chemoule, where government forces for two days have been firing heavily on rebel positions in the hills overlooking the Beirut international airport.

Traffic was halted until government armored cars shot their way through. By mid-morning, the security forces had opened up with heavy guns and silenced the rebel positions, at least temporarily. Two jet fighters strafed the rebels near Alep.

The east-west highway, Lebanon's main artery for trade with the interior which is the economic backbone of the commercial nation, was still open.

The action around Alep was part of a continuing battle which began Monday with the rebel drive toward the international airport. The attack by the lightly armed rebels was turned back but they have hung on tenaciously in the rugged hills against government forces equipped with artillery and armored cars and supported by jet fighters, plus irregulars supporting the pro-western government of President Camille Chamoun.

The toughest resistance to the government has come in Tripoli, where the rebellion broke out May 10. Army officers there disagreed whether the shaky truce might be a significant break in the rebellion.

Some officers seemed to think the rebels were showing signs of weakening. Rebels in Tripoli's port area obviously were running out of ammunition after troops cut their supply lines.

The army commander said his forces had taught the rebels in the area "a good lesson" and some of them already had given up their arms.

Appleton Outing

Kaukauna — The Kaukauna Junior Legion team will tangle with a strong Fond du Lac squad at 2:30 Saturday afternoon on the Dodge street diamond.

The invaders are paced by "Hub" King, one of the top pitchers in the league and have only one loss to date. King struck out 20 men Sunday in downing the Appleton Legion team 6 to 0. He allowed two hits in the contest. He also holds a 10-1 win over Little Chute, a 6-0 shutout against Mayville and a 3-2 loss to Kimberly.

Fond du Lac and Green Bay share first place with records of five wins and one defeat. Kaukauna has only one league game remaining in first round play after the Fond du Lac encounter.

Kaukauna Players

Coach Gerry Hopfensperger is expected to open with Jerry DeBruin on the hill as he has come through strong in the last few outings and owns the only Kaukauna win to date. Terry Sharron will be the likely catcher.

Hopfensperger has made several changes since the start of the season, resulting in more power at the plate. Bruce Vanevenhoven has been made lead-off batter and usually can be counted on to reach first a few times during a game. He plays second base. Following him will be Jim Steger, shortstop, and Fred Steger, right field. Ron Busse, third base, hits in the cleanup spot.

Ed Schaefer will likely be at first base, Bruce Bay in left field and Ed Vanden Heuvel in centerfield. Should DeBruin run into trouble, Tony Van Zealand and Tom Frank are held in reserve with DeBruin being moved to first base or the outfield to take advantage of his hitting power.

Economists To Tour Area Paper Centers

Month-Long Economic Conference to Focus On Paper Industry

Wisconsin's paper industry is the focus of study at a month-long economics-in-action program opened Monday on the University of Wisconsin campus.

A dozen college economists, representing institutions from Massachusetts to Kansas, are meeting for an intensive exploration into everyday business activity. The conference will continue through July 25.

On the teachers' agenda are tours to four Fox Cities paper centers. The group will spend July 8 at the Institute of Paper Chemistry, July 9 at Thilmany Pulp and Paper company, Kaukauna; July 10 at Kimberly-Clark corporation, Neenah, and July 11 at Marathon corporation, Menasha.

How It Ticks

"The American economy resembles a giant watch and we are trying to take a look behind its face and see how it ticks," said Prof. John L. Miller of the university extension division, the course director.

"The average college economics teacher can usually tell the 'economic time' at a glance, but he doesn't get much opportunity to observe the intricate details of business operations," Miller stated. "We think we help fill this gap."

Leading Wednesday's session on the Madison campus was Dr. Willis Van Horn of the Institute of Paper Chemistry. Dr. Van Horn discussed water problems of the paper industry.

Included on the roster of lecturers to be heard in the coming weeks are Fred Leech, general sales manager of Riverside Paper corporation, Appleton, and W. H. Clifford, vice president in charge of finance for Kimberly-Clark.

Other Areas

Leech will speak on the subject of pricing in the paper industry during the July 8 tour of the institute. Clifford will attend the July 15 Madison session, where he will discuss financing in the industry.

The economists will supplement their study with a look at other areas of commerce, finance and marketing in visits to Milwaukee and Chicago. One basic raw material—wood—will be considered in a visit to the trees-for-tomorrow camp, Eagle River.

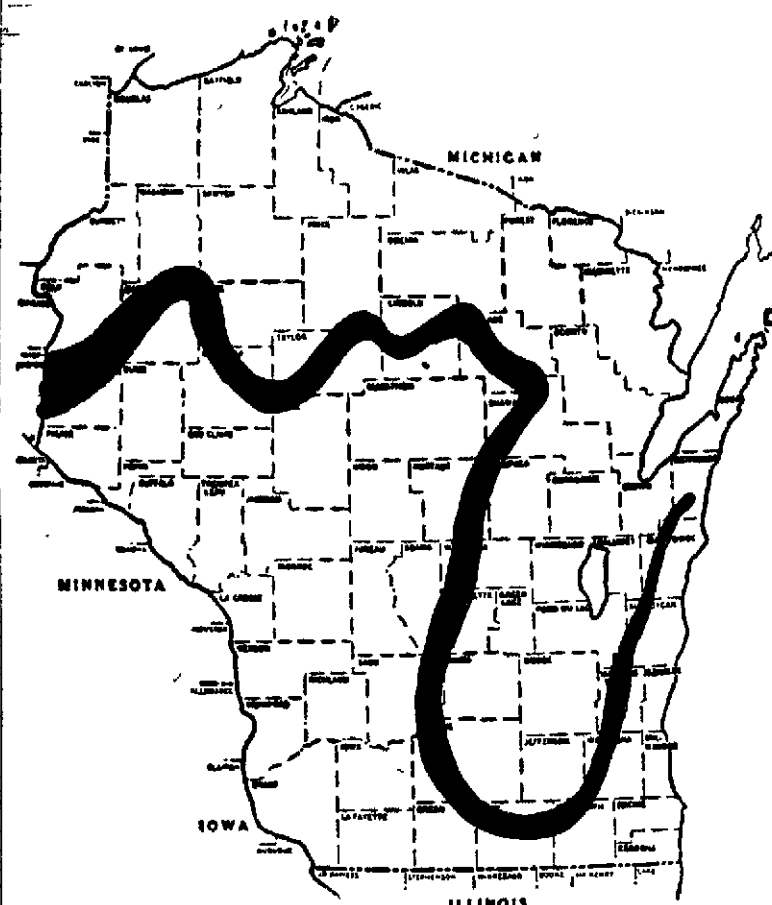

Among 35 firms and foundations financing the program through contributions are Appleton Coated Paper foundation, Appleton; Bergstrom foundation and Kimberly-Clark corporation, both of Neenah; Gilbert Paper foundation and Marathon foundation, both of Menasha, and Thilmany Pulp and Paper company, Kaukauna.

Drum, Bugle Corps Will Enter Meet

Little Chute — Practice sessions three nights a week have been started by the All-Girl Drum and Bugle corps in preparation for the State American Legion convention competition at LaCrosse July 26 and 27.

Clair Peeters, director of the corps, has been sending the girls through their paces. Marching is done on North Grand avenue and drills are run at the athletic field and school parking lot.

Last weekend the girls made two appearances, one at Plymouth and the other at Denmark. In competition at Wisconsin Rapids the corps placed second.

The 500-mile-long strip through the state, shown in black on the map, is the proposed Wisconsin Glacier National park. Its route follows roughly the terminal or southernmost edge of the ice movement centuries ago, known as the Cary ice sheet.

Proposed National Park To Follow Glacier Trail

Field Team to Study Long Strip That Winds Through 26 Wisconsin Counties

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A narrow, 500-mile long and meandering national glacier park may be in Wisconsin's future.

The proposed park area follows the southernmost edge of glacial deposits (moraines) left thousands of years ago by the Cary ice sheet of the Wisconsin glacial period. Its serpentine trail of accumulated earth, stones and rubble winds through 26 counties.

An inspection field team will be sent to the proposed area by Conrad L. Wirth, director of the national park service, according to Rep. Henry S. Reuss (D-Milwaukee), who sparked the idea of a national park in Wisconsin. Creation of a glacier national park was suggested to Reuss by Milwaukee conservationist Raymond T. Zillmer.

Proposal Timely

Wirth suggested that Reuss, Zillmer and Daniel J. Tobin, regional director of the national park service, make a field study of the project after congress adjourns. He said the proposal was "admirable, broad and imaginative." He also told the congressman that the plan was timely in view of the 10-year plan of national park development known as "Mission 66."

The proposal calls for expansion of the present Kettle Moraine State forest districts. The northern area is in Sheboygan, Fond du Lac and Washington counties and the southern district is in Waukesha, Walworth and Jefferson counties. Point Beach State forest, west of Two Rivers, also is terminal moraine country. All three areas are in the state forest and park system under the jurisdiction of the conservation department.

Leonard Weis, assistant professor of geology at Lawrence college, said today that the Cary end or terminal moraines indicated as a possible future park form an outline of one of the major ice advances of about 15,000 years ago.

He said that roughly two-thirds of the state was once under ice. Glacial deposits of various types exist in many parts of these areas.

"The Cary ice sheet was but a part of what is known as the Wisconsin glaciers that covered the northern and eastern part of the state for thousands of years."

High Cliff Area Not In Proposed Park

High Cliff State Forest park in Calumet county, financed in part by the forestry mill tax fund used in Kettle Moraine counties, is not in the area of the proposed glacier national park.

It was part of the land covered by the Cary ice sheet, but its glacial deposits are not in the outline path of the moraines left by the huge glacier when it melted back from its southernmost edge.

The cliff ridge itself was not formed by a glacier, but is water-laid bed rock. High Cliff ridge or escarpment is the same limestone (Niagara dolomite) that forms the crest of Niagara falls. The ridge of rock that runs northward through Brown and Door counties played a part in the formation of the two fingers of glacial ice that are known as the Green Bay and Lake Michigan lobes. This rock was so resistant that it split the vast moving ice sheet into the two lobes.

"There were several ice movements during this time and the Cary was the next to the last one in Wisconsin."

The park, if established, would wind through the counties of Polk, St. Croix, Barron, Rusk, Chippewa, Taylor, Lincoln, Langlade, Shawano, Marathon, Portage, Waupaca, Wausau, Adams, Marquette, Columbia, Sauk, Dane, Green Rock, Walworth, Waukesha, Washington, Sheboygan, Manitowoc and Kewaunee.

Similar to 2 Trails
Rep. Reuss pointed out that such a park would offer the Midwest an attraction similar to the popular Appalachian trail or the John Muir trail in the Sierra range.

He said that shelters could be furnished for overnight camps. "The scenic, historical and recreational values of such a park would be complemented by the soil and water conservation that would result," Reuss said. "In addition, the moraines are near the center of population in the United States."

John E. Doerr, chief naturalist of the national park service and former Wisconsin state geologist for 10 years, considers the geology of the state to be of more than ordinary interest. He stated that, although there are lesser exhibits of glacial moraines now in the national park system, there is no existing unit in which such moraines resulting from the continental ice sheets constitute the primary feature.

Wirth said in a letter to Rep. Reuss, "We believe that the proposal warrants careful and serious consideration to determine the national significance, suitability, possible extent and feasibility of the area for national park purposes."

"Seldom do park proposals inspire us to such lengthy commentary, especially before field study," he wrote. "This one, however, seems particularly apt."

Village Gets Telephone Tax Check From State

Little Chute — A check for $13,193.16 has been received by the village as its share of the state telephone tax.

The amount is $124.99 more than was received last year.

Interest. He stated that, although there are lesser exhibits of glacial moraines now in the national park system, there is no existing unit in which such moraines resulting from the continental ice sheets constitute the primary feature.

Wild Rose Marks 2 Years of Village Improvement Work

Spirit of Small Village Brings National Attention; Woman's Club to Get $5,000 Award

BY RICHARD GLAMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Wild Rose will be celebrating more than the Fourth of July Friday. It will be celebrating the success of what might be called "Operation Bootstrap"—a community improvement program that has drawn national attention to the little Waushara county village about 50 miles west of the Fox Cities.

Highlight of the celebration will be presentation of a $5,000 check to the Wild Rose Women's club. The club recently won first place in a national community improvement contest sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the Sears-Roebuck foundation.

Although the Woman's club activity will highlight the events, the whole community can take credit for achievements of the last two years.

List Achievements
A list of these achievements would put many a larger community to shame. Included are:

A successful industrial promotion campaign that resulted in raising $125,000 to buy land and build a box factory that now employs about 90 people and has a weekly payroll of about $4,500.

Building and equipping a new village library made possible by a special bequest and additional donations of money, time, material books and furnishings.

Purchase and formation of a 24-acre community park with a trout stream running through the middle and the fishing rights reserved for the village children.

Social Center
Establishment of a Spanish-American Social center for the many itinerant workers who come to the area to care for and harvest the bean and pickle crops.

Erection and operation of an information booth for tourists and cataloging of all vacation facilities in the area to promote the community as a vacation center.

Formation of a recreation program for community youngsters that includes a Pony league baseball team, a water safety program and supervised playground activities. Part of the school grounds was paved to provide tennis courts and roller skating in the summer and an ice skating rink in the winter. A recreation director was hired for the summer months.

A village beautification program in which over 1,800 rose bushes were planted throughout the village and individual families improved the appearance of their property.

Community Council
Formation of a community council made up of representatives of every organization in the community to coordinate the improvement projects and summer of 1956. The plan to be a "One Fund Drive" operation in October of this year, only about 100 chest drive which provides money for many activities. The community council has organized clinics for polio shots and will provide the money for the vaccine for any child not able to pay the cost.

The village board purchased a new fire truck and installed a new siren to call the volunteer firemen, who formerly were notified by telephone. A civil defense and disaster unit was organized and a 2-way radio for fire and police protection was purchased.

Just how the community improvement program got started is difficult to discover, but now every one of the 582 persons in the village appears to be charged with community spirit. They are proud—and justly so—of their accomplishments and are looking for more to do.

Picture in 1956
The picture of the town in 1956 was one of static population with little promise of growth. Its two principal industries were a creamery and a sawmill, which provided employment for about 47 persons. With mechanization, many small farms had become economically unsound and many were unoccupied as the land became marginal or sub-marginal.

Because there were few opportunities in agriculture, business or industry the young people left as soon as they finished high school. Fourteen percent of the people were 65 or over, compared to 7 per cent for larger communities in the state. Library and recreation facilities were inadequate, as was fire protection. In spite of the many lakes in the area, many of the young people did not know how to swim.

To correct this condition, the community established a list of five major needs:

A village so attractive young people will want to remain and establish homes.

Economic stability from industrial development, soil conservation and tourist attraction.

Recreation for children, young people and adults and some activities in which whole families could participate.

An adequate library and all the cultural facilities it could provide the village and community.

Equipment and training for fire protection, civil defense and a course in water safety for children.

Needs Met
These needs have been met with plenty to spare.

Undoubtedly the biggest single boost to the Wild Rose economy came with location there in 1956 of the Kiekhefer Box and Lumber company. This was brought about through formation of an industrial development unit called Wild Rose Community, Inc.

The unit was formed primarily through the interest of E. L. Knoke, owner of Knoke Forest Products, the local sawmill. (He is an uncle of Elmer, Melvin and Armin Knoke of Appleton.) Knoke attended a governor's conference on industrial development at Green Lake in May of 1955. He returned to promote formation of the industrial development unit. In November the Kiekhefer company was contacted. Arrangements were made and a stock subscription campaign began to raise the money to buy the land and build the plant.

Nearly everyone in Wild Rose bought some stock in the corporation. In all, 177 families bought a share in their community's future. The $125,000 of every organization in the community to coordinate the improvement projects and summer of 1956. The plan to be a "One Fund Drive" operation in October of this year, only about 100 chest drive which provides money for many activities. The community council has organized clinics for polio shots and will provide the money for the vaccine for any child not able to pay the cost.

The village board purchased a new fire truck and installed a new siren to call the volunteer firemen, who formerly were notified by telephone. A civil defense and disaster unit was organized and a 2-way radio for fire and police protection was purchased.

Shown Here are Some of the many projects that have drawn national attention to the small Waushara county village of Wild Rose. The village will hold a celebration July 4 to recognize its achievements. Highlight of the celebration will be presentation of a $5,000 check to the Woman's club, which recently won first place in a national community improvement project.

At the upper left is the new Patterson Memorial library completed and dedicated in 1957. At upper right, Miss Arlene Holt, volunteer worker in the information booth erected by the Lions club, gives some information to Ted Grzeskiewicz, a Chicago police officer vacationing in the area. The center picture at left is the box factory brought to the village by a $125,000 stock sale by Wild

Rose Community, Inc. The firm now employs about 90 persons. At lower left, Tom Getchius, former chairman of the migrant labor committee of the community council, carries some chairs into the Spanish-American Social Center provided for itinerant workers who come to the area in the summer. The lower right photo shows the community park. The Pine river is reserved for children's fishing. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Wild Rose Hospital Plans 3-Story Addition

Work on $70,000
Structure May Begin in August

Wild Rose—A 3-story addition to the Wild Rose hospital to cost an estimated $70,000 will begin this summer, probably in August. Cost is for the building alone and does not include the cost of the building.

The hospital received an extension of time from the Ford Foundation to qualify for the grant. The final time limit for qualification was June 1 and the hospital qualified May 1.

The second floor will have an operating room, emergency room, X-ray laboratory and darkroom and a sterilizing department. The third floor will contain the new maternity section, delivery room and nursery.

The New State

The vote in Congress admitting Alaska as the nation's forty-ninth state is a victory for those who believe that the American dream is an ever expanding one, not limited by geography or man-made boundary lines.

If we think of the United States simply as a geographical entity — a place on the map which has geographical unity — then the arguments against granting statehood to either Alaska or Hawaii have some merit. But if we think of America in terms of people cemented together by the ideal of freedom under law, and the institutions that have sprung from that ideal, then neither oceans, nor mountain ranges, nor deserts, nor even language barriers should stand in the way of statehood for those who wish to cast their lot with us.

Alaska is a fabulous area — twice the size of Texas, 11 times the size of Wisconsin, it is rich in minerals and other resources, has some of the continent's most spectacular scenery, and in recent years has taken on increased military importance. Its admission extends the continental United States to within 50 miles of the Russian mainland; it opens up a vast new area for settlement and exploitation that, with modern communications and transportation and perhaps some day presently undreamed of methods of controlling the weather, may a century hence make it one of our most populous states.

In the final analysis there were only two things we could do about Alaska — admit it into the Union, or give it independence. Keeping it indefinitely as a territory would have amounted to colonialism, and colonialism is intolerable to Americans.

It is perhaps a tribute to the basic cautiousness and conservatism of our system of government that statehood for Alaska should have been delayed so long despite the undeniable fact that the vast majority of our people favored its admission, and that practically every president in the last quarter-century has asked that it be made a state. This conservatism built into our system is a good thing provided that the people's will eventually wins out — and that too seems to be an integral part of the way the system operates.

All hail the new state! The American dream once again has won out over small-minded men who would build a fence around it and hobble it with ropes of provincialism and petty politics.

What Happened to Hawaii?

While the admission of Alaska is a victory for the American dream (see above), the treatment of Hawaii is a defeat. We have not been able to understand what happened to Hawaii's cause during all the furor over Alaska; there seems almost to have been a conspiracy of silence about it. Reading the bulk of the nation's press, one would almost think Hawaii had disappeared under the sea.

All the arguments that favored Alaska's admission apply with even more force to Hawaii. Her economy, her politics, her institutions such as schools and courts and her territorial government are far more advanced than Alaska's.

Hawaii is a modern, bustling, highly civilized area. She attracts tourists from all over the world; her agriculture is rich and provides employment for thousands; she has great cities and beautiful scenery and magnificent harbors and some of our most vital military installations. Her people are gentle, industrious, cosmopolitan and loyal. She has waited long and patiently for political recognition from the mainland.

The only argument we have heard against statehood for Hawaii is the presence in the islands of some communists, and we consider it a specious one. As Sen. Watkins has asked, what difference does it make whether these few Reds are in a territory or a state? The other 48 states do not seem to have had much difficulty controlling their commies; it seems to us the people of Hawaii would be more likely to be firm in handling communists under statehood than if they are kept in a semi-colonial status.

As a report of a congressional committee pointed out several years ago, our continued failure to admit Hawaii as a state can only be interpreted among the millions of other Pacific peoples as meaning that American citizenship is for white people only. Now that Alaska has been admitted, this argument is more true than ever.

How the Declaration Came About

Americans tend to think of the Fourth of July as the anniversary of the beginning of the American Revolution. Actually the adoption of the Declaration of Independence by the Continental Congress in 1776 marked the end of a struggle for ideals that were firm in the minds of some and developing over the years for others. There was a lot of fighting still ahead, but the American Revolution in spirit was over in the summer of 1776.

There are three main philosophies in the Declaration, and it is interesting to trace their development through the manuscripts of the early colonies:

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness.

That, to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed;

That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or abolish it . . .

Of course, many of the ideas expressed in the Declaration came from the writings of John Locke, from Milton's Areopagitica, the Mayflower Compact and William Penn's Plan of Union. But the documents of the 15 or 20 years before the actual fighting broke out reveal how the colonists' thinking developed.

In 1761 James Otis, speaking against the Writ of Assistance (later specifically banned in our Bill of Rights) emphasized that some rights could not be infringed upon by government. "As to Acts of Parliament. An act against the Constitution is void; an act against natural equity is void." Frontiersmen protesting the restrictions on western lands remonstrated in 1764, "... as Freeman and English Subjects, we have an indisputable Title to the same Privileges and immunities with his Majesty's other Subjects." The Virginia Stamp Act resolutions in 1765 affirmed that "the colonists . . . are declared entitled to all liberties, privileges and immunities of denizens and natural subjects, to all intents and purposes, as if they had been abiding and born within the realm of England."

The Stamp act also brought out instructions from the town of Braintree, Mass., and authored by John Adams that "we further apprehend this tax to be unconstitutional. We have always understood it to be a grand and fundamental principle of the constitution, that no freeman should be subject to any tax which he has not given his own consent, in person or by proxy . . . We can never be slaves . . ." The same idea appeared in resolutions adopted by the Stamp Act Congress. The county court of Northampton, Va., simply said that the Stamp Act, being unconstitutional, was not binding.

A Resolution of the New York Sons of Liberty in 1773 illustrates the trend away from firm allegiance to the crown. "To prevent a calamity which, of all others, is the most to be dreaded, slavery, and its terrible concomitants — we, subscribers being influenced from a regard to liberty, and disposed to use all lawful endeavors in our power . . . to transmit to our posterity, those blessings of freedom which our ancestors have handed down to us; and to contribute to the support of the common liberties of America, which are in danger to be subverted . . . do agree . . . that whosoever shall sell or buy tea . . . or shall aid . . . in transporting such tea . . . from this city until the revenue act shall be totally and clearly repealed, he shall be deemed an enemy to the liberties of America."

The Declaration and Resolves of the first Continental Congress in 1774 again emphasized the right to "life, liberty and property . . . and that the foundation of all free government is a right in the people to participate in their legislative council." Then came the agreement for non-intercourse with England, the first real move of the states to act together, a warning of "the fetters of slavery" from the Congress to Canada, and a declaration of the causes and necessity of taking up arms. But this last document, written just a year before the Declaration of Independence, insisted that "we do not mean to dissolve that union . . . We have not raised armies with ambitious designs of separating from Great Britain and establishing independent states . . . but in our own native land, in defense of the freedom that is our birthright." Even the Proclamation of Rebellion in August, 1775, ends with "God Save The King!"

But a year of war, combined with continued refusal on England's part to modify its restrictions and the constant agitation of Sam Adams and Thomas Paine, convinced even such conservatives as George Washington that independence was the only means of survival. From Massachusetts came instructions to try for independence. "We hope in vain (for reconciliation); the British have lost their love of freedom, they have lost the spirit of just resentment . . . We therefore renounce with disdain our connexion with a kingdom of slaves; we bid a final adieu to Britain . . . We are confirmed in the opinion, that the present age would be deficient in their duty to God, their posterity and themselves, if they do not establish an American Republic."

Thus came the document which we revere today. It was worth a war. It is worth a re-reading every Fourth of July.

Looking Backward

Appleton Man Invents Electro Pen

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of July 5, 1879.

Among the inventions of the last decade, few have attracted more attention than the Pen Writer. But the enormous expense of the machine has prevented its coming into anything like a general use among businessmen.

Now Appleton comes to the front with an invention that will entirely supplant the existing writing machines of all names and kinds. The discovery of the "Electro Pen" is due to the genius of J. W. Underhill of Appleton. He has secured letters patent thereon.

The Crescent is not yet authorized to state its particulars. Let it suffice that a machine costing $10 to $15 — there are two sizes or kinds — will do the work neater and better than those which have been sold in market for $45 to $65.

It will sketch and engrave in remarkably excellent style. Mr. Underhill is in a fair way to be rewarded for his months of toil and experiment, because his Electro Pen is sure to come into general use.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, June 29, 1933

The board of directors of Appleton Chamber of Commerce went on record in favor of the construction of a new high school by the city on a site bounded by N. State, W. Atlantic, N. Garfield, and W. Packard streets. Action, the board agreed, should be taken at once. The cost of the new equipment would not be more than $520,000, the money to be secured under the terms of the National Recovery act.

L. J. Bosworth, receiver for the City National bank at Oshkosh, was appointed receiver for the Citizen's National bank of Appleton. The new assignment was made by J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of currency at Washington, D. C.

What was believed to be the largest demonstration of marine activities in this section of Wisconsin was to take place Sunday at De Pere when the dedication of the new Claude Allouez bridge was to take place. Power and sail boat owners throughout the Fox river valley were invited to participate in the parade scheduled in the evening.

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, July 1, 1948

Basil McKenzie and daughter, Miss Mary McKenzie, Appleton, were to attend the Peninsula Players production of "Idiot's Delight" that evening at Fish Creek. James McKenzie was to appear in the play as a British honey-mooner.

Black Valor, a black Labrador dog owned, trained and handled by Forrest Peebles of Weyauwega, won first place honors in the derby event of the American Kennel club's sanctioned water trials at Green Bay.

As plans shaped up for the "Tale of the Fox" Outagamie county centennial pageant to be presented July 15 through 18 at Kaukauna, competition was becoming keener for the "Miss Outagamie" title and arrangements were being made to select a junior king and queen for the event.

Genet, Menshikov Alike — Neither Good Ambassador

From the New York Daily News.

On Feb. 1, 1793, revolutionary France, feeling full of zip and vinegar, declared war on Great Britain, Holland and Spain.

To the United States as minister with broad powers, France sent one Edmond Charles Genet. "Citizen" Genet took it upon himself to try to collect the first installment on our alleged "debt to Lafayette" for France's help in our revolution — a debt on which we are still paying. That is to say, Genet tried to drag the United States into France's war on Britain, Holland and Spain.

He financed the fitting out of privateer fighting ships in U. S. ports to prey on the Spaniards in Florida and Louisiana and on British high-seas shipping. He organized rallies where pro-French U. S. speakers yelled for our entry into the war. He got to the point of attacking President George Washington himself because Washington was determined to keep this nation neutral.

At last, Genet threatened to appeal to the American people over the head of their own president. Thereupon, Washington told France to jerk its minister out of here. France sent a new minister, with orders to arrest Genet and ship him home for trial. President Washington then relented, to the extent of refusing to permit Genet's extradition.

Genet settled down in this country, took out U. S. citizenship after a while, and behaved like a decent, law-abiding American for the rest of his days.

The U. S. A. has just booted out a minor Soviet spy named Nikolai I. Kurochkin. But still gallivanting around this country and trying to make trouble for our current president, Dwight D. Eisenhower, is Mikhail Menshikov, Soviet ambassador to the United States.

His pitch is that there are no serious differences between the U. S. A. and the USSR; that the two nations should coexist peacefully and trade without restrictions; and that the communists in the Kremlin don't mean what they say when they bawl at Kremlin cocktail parties that they will bury us.

Menshikov has now come to the point of saying on television shows that he is sure the American people don't want to fight Russia but is not so sure that the U. S. government doesn't.

In this, Comrade Menshikov is trying to do precisely what Citizen Genet tried to do. He is attempting to split the American people from their own government to serve the purposes of a foreign power.

It seems to us that the time is ripe for President Eisenhower to tell Moscow to jerk Menshikov out of here, as Washington told France to do with Citizen Genet.

Then, if Menshikov wants to follow the Genet pattern and settle here rather than go home and be liquidated for falling down on his job, that should be okay — provided he tells the FBI and the CIA all he knows about Russia, ceases all spy work, and keeps his big mouth shut in public.

Foreign Travel Helps in Effort For World Peace

From the Wilkes-Barre Record.

Governments deal with governments at the high levels of state. But it takes more than this to bring about understanding and friendship between nations. The ideal would be for every citizen of every land to travel widely, and to meet his equivalents abroad face to face. Old and groundless suspicion and distrust, nurtured in the dangerously fertile soil of ignorance, would vanish. The goal of lasting world peace would surely be in sight.

The late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, who made an outstanding record as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee in days of grave international troubles, once said that his hobby was foreign travel. He went abroad, he added, not for fun but for self-improvement. Each year he visited a different country for two months — talking, studying, observing. And the result was an invaluable understanding of the needs, problems, aspirations, and characters of other peoples.

Today millions of Americans, and legions of people elsewhere, can pursue a hobby similar to that of Sen. Vandenberg. The airplane has made that easier. For the first time, people of average means with two or three weeks annual vacation, can spend practically all of that time in foreign lands. They can gain insight into the culture, traditions, and beliefs of others. They can exchange thoughts and resolve differences — and help build the bridge of friendship that this old world, so sorely needs if civilization is to survive.

Capitol Office Holders Often Politically Naive

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Madison — The Republican state senator was impatient as he talked with a high ranking state capitol administrator at a Madison restaurant.

The office holder, a career man who had worked for years in a back office of one of the state agencies and rose to the top through the appointment and reappointment of a succession of Republican governors, was somewhat piously reciting his total lack of interest or activity in partisan politics.

"There's no politics in my office," he bragged. "Nobody knows how I vote." "Do you imagine," challenged the legislator curtly, "that's going to save your job if the Democrats take over the governorship and the legislature?"

The officeholder looked surprised and pained. Quite obviously such a possibility had never occurred to him. He had spent his adult life under Republican regimes. He had never reflected that there is no ordinance requiring the Republicans to win elections, and also quite apparently had never equated a possible change of political climate in the state with his personal fortunes as a politically appointed state official who likes his job and wants to hold it for the rest of his life.

FACTS OF LIFE

The Republican legislator, a man of substance and conscience who is proud of his party and his own contributions to it, was probably quite within his rights in reprimanding a high officer for such a betrayal of naivete.

There is no serious politician of any persuasion, it may be supposed, who would have state capitol administrators become campaigners.

But it is a perfectly natural feeling for them to expect some measure of awareness of political realities. Democrats as well as Republicans, if their positions were reversed, would be irritated by such bland assumptions that the party cause is bad, the false fastidiousness of those who pretend that "independence" is superior to partisanship. Most politicians, even those of wholesome ideals, suspect that the "independent" is too often a fellow who is too lazy, or scared, or unintelligent to make up his mind.

As it happens, this particular officeholder probably has political immunity. His is essentially a professional service. It would be awkward and difficult to send him packing, even if a job-hungry new party took over control.

But there are no absolute protections. A governor can appoint whom he pleases. There is no suggestion here that a Democratic victory would mean a mass firing of employees and officials in Madison and in the field services of the state departments. Probably the Democratic leadership would be content with the mass of the state servants.

CAREFUL

There is a strong civil service tradition in the state government, which the Republicans have been careful to respect and the Democrats will be constrained to observe also.

But parties are subject to inner forces, including the patronage instinct.

A Democratic governor, faced with a choice between a competent Republican incumbent, or even a non-partisan, and a faithful, influential Democrat of equal qualifications, would be foolish indeed to spurn the claims of his Democratic ally. Thus it can be predicted with absolute certainty that a change of control at the capitol would bring with it great numbers of new faces in high appointive places, precisely as did the Republican victory of 20 years ago.

There were perfectly adequate men replaced during these last two decades, by Republican governors who chose their friends.

It is one of the mysteries of life in the Wisconsin statehouse, however, that such elementary truths have managed to escape so many officeholders to whom self-interest, if nothing else, should make it obvious.

Communists Give Warfare New Form

From the Huron, S. D., Plainsman.

Edward Hunter, a man experienced in psychological warfare, says war has changed its form.

The communists have discovered that a dead man is useless . . . that a demolished city is useless," he said in testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activity. "The object of communist warfare is to capture intact the minds of people and their possessions, so they can be put to use."

"It should be obvious to anyone who has observed the cold war that the United States is its principal target," he said.

The communists have been operating for a full generation, taking advantage of American principles, exploiting the best in our characters as vulnerability, Hunter declares.

Even ultimate superiority in military weapons may not be sufficient to guarantee the survival of the United States, he feels.

How should the United States fight back?

Hunter's answer is: We must stop trying to "get along" with everyone and start standing up for our principles and our best interests.

Expectations High for High Average Pea Pack

Rain Hampers Starting Days of Harvest; Early Crop Cut by Frost East of Fox Cities

The pea pack has started in the Fox Cities area and prospects indicate a bountiful harvest this year.

The rains of the last two days halted work in some areas but did little damage.

Drought and frost in the eastern part of the state damaged the early pea crop, according to a spokesman for the Chilton Canning company.

The early pea crop was cut to about 80 per cent of normal in the Chilton area. However, farther south the damage was extensive enough to wipe out practically the entire crop.

Above Average The Appleton - Hortonville area yield and quality is above average. The pack should be completed in about four weeks.

The Fox Valley Canning company at Hortonville planned to start its pack Tuesday, but heavy rain shut down its Clayton, Ellington and Dale stations. Work at these stations was hampered by Wednesday's rain as well.

Stations at Mackville, Sugar Bush and Bear Creek were hardly bothered by rain the same days.

The quality of the peas going into Hortonville is well above average, according to the spokesman.

Better Than Expected At Stokley-Van Camp, the yield is better than was expected, according to a firm spokesman. Quality is about average.

The pack started on June 27. Rain also hampered the harvest for Stokley-Van Camp the last two days, but it is expected to help the quality and quantity of the late peas.

At Chilton, the pack of early peas was started on June 24 and will be completed Saturday. Harvest of the late peas will begin on Monday and should run about three weeks.

Frost hurt the early peas and cut the pack in quantity, but not quality. Late peas are expected to be of very high quality and yield. The harvest had to be halted all day Tuesday and part of Wednesday because of rain.

The pea pack is expected to be completed in about 23 days.

Thomson Names Ex-Judge for Sheriff's Probe

Controversy Finally Heads Into Formalized Brown County Inquiry

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Gov. Vernon W. Thomson today ordered a formal investigation into the protracted controversy involving Brown County Sheriff Artley Skenandore and charges of misconduct.

The governor named Herman W. Sachtjen, Madison, a retired circuit court judge, as commissioner to conduct the hearing. The inquiry will begin July 16 at Green Bay.

The governor also announced that Commissioner Sachtjen has named John M. Potter, Wisconsin Rapids, former Wood county district attorney to assist him.

Allegations Made The governor acted, he said, following petitions from Francis Leanna, member of the Brown county board, and Mrs. Mary Ann Sanderson alleging that Skenandore took a bribe to protect Mrs. Sanderson's house of prostitution.

The Leanna and Sanderson petitions generally charge "inefficiency, neglect of duty and malfeasance of office" against Skenandore. Thomson said he had notified Skenandore of the formal probe.

Thomson also spoke critically of Leanna and Sanderson, in which he has been helped by his attorney, Owen Monfils, district chairman of the Democratic organization. Thomson said Leanna had "been prolific in his charges, all made by legally insufficient or incorrect petitions. At the last minute he saw fit to file a proper petition of his charges."

Repeats Charges The formal petition repeats Skenandore's charge of bribery, of Skenandore creating a disturbance at a root beer stand in May, 1957, and the drunkenness charge against Skenandore in San Francisco last February.

The charges were reviewed earlier by Frank Larkin, named an agent of the district attorney through agreement with the governor. Larkin reported he could find no grounds for Skenandore's removal although his report was an informal one, since no witnesses were sworn.

The formal hearings and the summoning of witnesses are likely to require some time. The commissioner must then prepare his report and recommendations on the basis of a transcript of the proceedings, for consideration of the governor. It appeared likely that a final decision in the controversy may be six weeks or more distant.

A Greenhouse Has Been Added to gardening facilities at St. Elizabeth hospital and has been moved piece by piece from the John Balliet home, 2 Brokaw place. The Balliets are shown with, from left, Sister M. Antoinette, Sister M. Salome, hospital administrator, and Sister M. Georgia. Sister Antoinette will have charge of the greenhouse and Sister Georgia will be her assistant. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Hospital Gets Greenhouse For Garden

A greenhouse, complete with a heating unit and fluorescent lighting, has been donated to the St. Elizabeth hospital garden by Mr. and Mrs. John Balliet.

The addition was moved piece by piece and pane of glass by pane of glass from the Balliet home at 2 Brokaw place to the east side of the hospital, where it currently is in use.

At present, the sisters are experimenting with the greenhouse growth of tomatoes (already about 2-feet high) and Job's tears. The seeds of the latter are used by Sister M. Killian to make rosaries.

2 From Fox Cities Injured in Crash

Two Fox Cities residents received minor injuries when the car in which they were riding was struck from the rear while they were stopped at the east end of the Mason street bridge in Green Bay Wednesday afternoon.

Driver of the car, David J. Olson, 22, 802 E. Hancock street, Appleton, received a head injury, and his passenger, George Kreiss, 20, 332 Third street, Neenah, received abrasions to his right arm and leg. Neither required hospital treatment.

Green Bay police said they were stopped for other traffic on the bridge when a pickup truck driven by Rudolph Falck, 66, route 2, Greenleaf, struck the car.

Charles Schartau, 87, 3 Stames drive, died at 1:10 this morning after a long illness. He was born Feb. 17, 1871, in the town of Caledonia and operated the Schartau Coal company in Appleton until he retired in 1944. He also lived in Oshkosh and Evanston, Ill.

Funeral services will be at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at First English Lutheran church with burial in Riverside cemetery, Oshkosh. Friends may call at the Wichmann Funeral home from 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon until 9:30 Monday morning and then at the church.

Survivors include his widow; one daughter, Mrs. Leona Maihafer, Menasha; two brothers, August, Dale, and Louis, Seattle, Wash.; and one sister, Mrs. Otto Tews, Readfield.

Sprayer, Radio Taken In Auto Shop Burglary

Hortonville — A paint sprayer and a radio receiver were taken from Stan's Auto Body shop, route 2, Hortonville, some time Wednesday night, Stanley Gracyalny has reported to the sheriff's department.

Gracyalny said he noticed the loss this morning. Entry apparently was made through the front door, which was open but not damaged. Gracyalny told the sheriff he was not sure if the door had been locked Wednesday night.

Now's the Time

Aldermen Want More Rooms on Two Schools

Alderman Harold Hannemann Wednesday called for an addition to Foster school and to the school, he said. Now it's reported some of them will have to be transported to other schools because of lack of space.

Hannemann said he realizes some of the classroom shortage on the south side is due to the overflow from Sacred Heart Catholic school, but prospects of the church eliminating the condition are not too good.

Schneider said there is serious doubt that four rooms will be enough at Richmond school. Each room, he said, probably will take care of about 25 children and that won't take care of the overcrowding.

Hannemann's resolution and Schneider's suggestion were referred to the board of education and the school advisory committee of the council.

The council approved hiring an architect by the school board to draw plans for the 4-room addition to Richmond school. Work will cost, about $75,000.

The board of education told the council in March the Richmond addition is timetable for 1959 and the Foster addition for 1962-63.

Site Too Small Richmond has a capacity of 210 all-day students, or 270 students when two rooms are used for half-day kindergarten classes. Enrollment in 1957 was 282, including kindergarten through grade 3 and some intermediate classes. It was built to accommodate kindergarten through grade 3 classes, John P. Mann, school superintendent, said today. Building more than four rooms is impossible, he said, because of the site size.

Foster has a capacity of 240 all-day students and was built to take care of and is handling kindergarten through grade 6. Next year, however, grade 6 will be moved to Madison Junior High school, Mann said.

Foster was constructed, Mann said, to permit addition of eight rooms. Need for construction isn't pressing, he said.

Others at various meetings during the week include Mrs. Jack Romaine, Fond du Lac, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stange and Mel Mather, Waupaca.

Seven members of the Fox Valley Liberal Religious fellowship are attending sessions of an area American Unitarian association conference at Lake Geneva this week.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Brown, Appleton, are at the conference for the entire week. Meetings are being held at the George Williams College camp, Leonard Weis, Appleton, attended the board meeting Tuesday of the north central area of the western conference of the association.

Others at various meetings during the week include Mrs. Jack Romaine, Fond du Lac, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stange and Mel Mather, Waupaca.

Funeral services will be at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at First English Lutheran church with burial in Riverside cemetery, Oshkosh. Friends may call at the Wichmann Funeral home from 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon until 9:30 Monday morning and then at the church.

Lifeguard Needed at Deep Water Entrance of Pool, Council Told

A lifeguard should be stationed at the deep water entrance in Erb park swimming pool, County Coroner Bernar d H. Kemps told the city council Wednesday.

"The core of the danger to non-swimmers," he said, "is without question at this location. If a guard is within feet of this spot he could come to the victim's rescue and thereby save a life."

Kemps' recommendation, forwarded to the welfare and ordinance committee for action, is the result of his investigation into the accidental drowning in the pool Saturday of George Reinke, Jr., 13.

Other items of new business: Reuben Stickney asked for rezoning of his property at 902 S. Lawe street, from single family to 2-family district.

Alderman Austin N. Tucker asked for normal maintenance work on W. Atlantic street from N. Oneida street to N. Superior street, the east side of N. Superior street from W. Washington street south to the alley, W. North street from N. Superior street east of N. State street and N. Durkee street from E. Pacific street to the North Western tracks.

west corner of N. Oneida street and W. Pacific street.

Alderman Mrs. Dorothy Stillings asked for a storm sewer from W. Rogers avenue west.

Alderman Charles Captain asked for a tack coat (oil) for the alley between S. Summit and S. Spruce streets.

Alderman Clarence Lautenschlaeger asked for a street light at N. Oneida street and Marquette street.

P. G. Miron Construction company, Inc., asked permission to block the sidewalk on the N. Superior street side of the Post - Crescent building roughly between Aug. 15 and Sept. 1.

Paul Hoffman filed a waiver of special assessment notice for grading and graveling to open N. Appleton street from 2226 N. Appleton to W. Lindbergh street.

Bert Hill, Green Bay, filed a claim for $9 to cover damages when his car struck a sewer trench Sunday on N. Oneida street.

Candidates for Court Clerk, Treasurer, Coroner Take Papers

Outagamie county Democrats Wednesday added three candidates to their ticket for the Sept. 9 primary.

Newest State Brings Fresh Wind to U. S.

Admission to Have Profound Effect On Politics; May Begin South's Drop

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE

Washington — A great, fresh wind of history is blowing in from the Pacific northwest.

Alaska's admission to the union has brought a clean sense of drama to this tired and jaded capital. Before the eyes of a new generation the country is again marching westward.

Moreover, by act of congress, the boastfulness attributed to Texas and California can never be quite what it was. Texas is no longer the biggest. Alaska's area is twice as great. California's Mount Whitney is dwarfed by Alaska's Mount McKinley.

White

In the longer and deeper sense, Alaska's entry as a state will have profound effects upon the public life of this country. It will mean a fundamental alteration of the balance of political power on legislative matters.

Alaska's success signals, immediately or distantly, these things:

1. Two additional Democratic senate seats after the November election. (The assumption is general here that Alaska will go Democratic at the start, if not necessarily remaining Democratic thereafter.)

Influence of West

2. A great rise in the influence of the west, particularly in the senate. There, an unadvised coalition between western and the more modern southern Democrats has already been functioning quietly for more than a year.

3. An accelerating decline in the national veto power of the old south, which has largely dominated congress for 20 years.

4. A swiftened parting in the south between the moderate new politicians and the southern old guard. That old guard, which is as touchingly gallant as it is out of touch with current reality, is going down fighting. But going down it is.

The westerners are concerned most of all—and Alaska's new congressional delegation will be, too—with the issues of construction as distinguished from the issues of reform. Their first interest is in such bread-and-butter matters as public power and reclamation. They have a world to win, and so do the new southerners, whereas the easterners have only a world to hold. Thus the westerners are making common cause with the new southerners upon many matters—of which Alaska is only latest and most dramatic.

Indeed, Alaskan statehood itself was a western-southern triumph. The west was out in front. But the southern moderates called the signals.

The modern southerners could not come too far forward for two reasons. They did not wish to stir up their still glumly-resisting old southern colleagues any more than need be. And they felt it only right the westerners should be out in front, since the state of Alaska will be a member here of the far western bloc.

Learn From South

Mansfield, Jackson, Neuberger and such western Republican allies as Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California performed with the light touch they learned from the moderate southern parliamentary virtuosos.

They were so mannerly with the opposition of the old southerners as all but to disarm them. This will be the way of the coalition of the west and the new south—it will have the vigor of the one and the skill of the other.

And this is perhaps the most significant circumstance of all for the future. For the coalition is aware of the force of what Churchill said when he was criticized for speaking softly to the Japanese ambassador in London upon Britain's declaration of war after Pearl Harbor: "When you are about to kill a man, it does no harm to be polite."

City Condemns Vacant House

Minnesota Owner Given Sixty Days To Raze Building

Building Inspector Walter Bogan moved Wednesday to condemn a vacant house at 827 E. North street.

It was the first time in Bogan's 13 years as inspector he has taken such action.

Owner of the house is Claude A. Robbins, St. Paul, Minn.

Bogan's order requires razing the house by noon on Sept. 2.

The order states Bogan has found the house "to be a nuisance by virtue of its state of age, having become dilapidated and out of repairs." It is "dangerous, unsafe, unsanitary and otherwise unfit for human habitation, occupancy or use" under the building code, it adds.

Waited Six Months Bogan was on the verge of ordering condemnation in December, but gave Robbins six months more after the man took out a permit to repair the house as Bogan directed.

Some minor work has been done, Bogan said, but the bulk remains unaccomplished and he has cancelled the permit.

Prior to Robbins' December promise of repairs, Bogan conducted lengthy negotiations with Miss Edith Brunschweiler, the then owner and a former city school teacher now living in St. Paul. The negotiations shifted to Robbins when Miss Brunschweiler sold the house to Robbins, a friend.

Appleton Pair Attends Alaska Statehood Fete

Rev. and Mrs. Roy Steen in Newest State for Campus Dedication Ceremony

Two Appleton residents joined in the Alaska statehood celebration in Anchorage Monday during their week-long stay in the nation's newest state.

The Rev. and Mrs. Roy P. Steen were in Alaska June 24 through July 2 to attend dedication services of Alaska Methodist university, the 40th state's first liberal arts school. The Rev. Mr. Steen is superintendent of the Appleton district of the Methodist church and was the only Wisconsin resident to attend the dedication ceremonies.

"We were hoping the statehood bill would be passed while we were there, but we couldn't be sure it would be," he explains.

"While we were on our way to the airport Monday for an airplane tour of Mount McKinley, all the whistles in Anchorage began their 5-minute blowing. That was the signal the bill had passed.

Everyone Celebrates "When we returned, all the businesses had closed and everyone in the city and surrounding towns was celebrating."

It was the biggest celebration since VJ day, residents told the clergyman, and organized festivities included a big parade and a bonfire which burned for about 10 hours. The Rev. Mr. Steen said the first supposedly used 49 tons of wood, one ton for each state in the union.

The celebration was not without its display of Alaskan pulchritude. The state's beauty queen, hoisted to a 40 by 60 foot American flag on an extension ladder, pinned the 49th star onto the field, he went on. "Because it doesn't get dark this time of year, the whole celebration was carried on in daylight. The sun set at 9:42 that night and rose again at 2:22 but even during the 'dark' hours, it was as light there as it is around 7 o'clock in the morning here."

He noted the cost of living is about double the cost here, but salaries also are double. The growing season, the Rev. Mr. Steen continues, is as long as it is in Wisconsin because of warm currents flowing along the coast and warming the air. While he and his wife were there, the temperature fluctuated between a comfortable 65 and 70 degrees.

Going Modern

The minister observed Anchorage is a boom town becoming a big city with log cabins, quonset huts and 14-story, modern apartment buildings standing side by side.

The college dedication ceremonies, the couple's primary reason for being in Alaska, were presided over by Bishop A. Frank Smith, president of the Methodist church's division of national missions. Bishop A. Raymond Grant, of the Oregon-Alaska area dedicated the campus, which is expected to be ready for classes by the 1960 fall term.

President-elect of the college is Dr. Donald Ebright, who said he already has received 85 applications for the staff. The $5,500,000 project is supported by all Methodist churches in the country and will be

Hospitals May Apply for Federal Aid

House Approves $2,543,358 Fund; Senate Not Pending

Madison — Federal aid of $2,543,358 may be available for construction of hospital facilities in Wisconsin for the period ending June 30, 1959, the state board of health announced today.

This represents 40 per cent of total costs and the grants must be matched with local funds. This could provide a construction project in the state costing in excess of $6,300,000, which it hopes will kick off the Vincent F. Otis, director of the board's division of hospital and related services, said.

The house of representatives has approved the program and the amount of the grant. Senate action is pending.

Money Earmarked

A breakdown of the proposed federal funds shows that $2,189,910 is earmarked for hospital and related facilities, including psychiatric departments, nursing schools, public health centers as well as general hospital care. Other allocated amounts are $104,232 for chronic disease hospital facilities; $104,232, diagnostic and treatment centers (outpatient department care); $72,492, nursing homes; and $72,492, rehabilitation centers.

"Because federal funds are limited and building costs remain high," Otis said, "only those projects having the highest priority may receive aid." Each hospital or hospitals in the community designated for priority must apply for the federal aid before Aug. 1 to be considered for the present program, he said.

Priority Listings

Otis pointed out the state board of health annually reviews and reassesses hospital and allied service needs by specified areas. Those communities noted for priorities, he stated, may not be interested in applying for aid. The hospitals may already be supplying the specific service under their general hospital program.

Cities listed for top priority for chronic disease facilities include the major hospital center, built on a 242-acre site at the foot of a mountain range.

The Rev. Mr. Steen said a junior college and Alaska university are in the area, but any student desiring a liberal arts education has to come to the states. The university offers mostly technical courses, he stated.

ters such as Appleton, Oshkosh, Neenah, Wausau, Marshfield and Janesville.

Those with general hospital priority are Crandon, Eagle River, Medford, Sturgeon Bay, Black River Falls and Baraboo-Prairie du Sac.

Twenty-seven communities are listed in the category for nursing homes including Neenah, Beloit, Marinette, Marshfield and Two Rivers.

Cities classified for priority for nervous and mental hospital aid include Wausau, Marshfield, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Manitowoc, Neenah, Janesville, Beloit and Kenosha.

Youth Center Fund Aim of WAPL Stunt

WAPL radio Wednesday revealed a promotion stunt which it hopes will kick off a fund to build a community youth center.

Disc Jockey Bob Bandy, the city council was told, will sit atop a 30-foot tower on the Washington hotel roof, starting Friday, until he receives 250,000 street without knowing details.

Appleton Post-Crescent 9 Thursday, July 3, 1958 telephone calls, letters and postcards.

The station will contribute $100 for every 25,000 calls, cards, and letters Bandy receives.

The money will be given the council, Jerry Luedtke, of the station staff, said, to be held in escrow for the community building.

Campaign Plank

Construction of a community center, with space for youth, was a plank in Mayor Clarence A. Mitchell's campaign platform in the April election.

A similar promotion by the Teutonia avenue businessman in Milwaukee a couple of years ago attracted national publicity. The flagpole sitter pledged not to come down until the Braves had won seven straight games. They never did.

The plans came out when the aldermen balked at granting the station permission to erect banners across W. Washington street and N. Appleton street without knowing details.

Actor Pat Wayne Says:

Today's Youth No Worse Than Yesterday's

BY BOB THOMAS
Hollywood —(U)—Are today's juveniles any more delinquent than previous generations? Pat Wayne doesn't think so.

Pat is the husky, handsome, 18-year-old son of John Wayne, and a teenage idol in his own right. No hothouse Hollywood kid is he. Pat has been reared in a normal Los Angeles neighborhood by his mother, long divorced from the actor.

Commenting on his contemporaries, Pat opined: "If a kid is left to himself, he'd never get into trouble. It's only when you get with a bunch of other fellows that you start smoking and cutting up. Then each one tries to outdo the other, and sometimes there is real trouble."

"But I don't think this generation is any different from other ones. We all do some crazy things. Like sneaking into theaters."

Turns Conservative

"I only got caught once," Pat remarked. "That was when we sneaked into the Pan-Pacific to see the Harlem Globetrotters play basketball. One of our buddies got caught. So we all gave ourselves up. The police took us away, but then they let us go."

Pat added that such experiences have made him more conservative. He realizes that the fact that he is John Wayne's son could provide headlines for even a minor brush with the law.

He recalled that he took up smoking and fast cars in his earlier years, even raced a car to 95 m.p.h. on a desert road. Now the thought of it scares him. He drives a fairly sedate station wagon and smokes an occasional cigar.

Likes Some Rock 'n' Roll

Pat was asked if he thought rock 'n' roll contributed to delinquency.

"Some of it is pretty wild," he commented. "I can see how listening to such music might fan the flames and help send a bunch of kids into trouble. But I don't think rock 'n' roll is the cause. Some kids are going to get into trouble anyway."

Pat himself admires some rock 'n' roll ("I like to listen to Elvis Presley, not watch him"), and he's going to contribute to the craze. He made a film for the "Mr. Adams and Eve" TV show to plug his latest movie, "The Young Land."

Jazz Pianist Erroll Garner Rides Phone Book to Concert Hall Fame

BY HUGH MULLIGAN
AP Newsmagazine Writer

For a man who can't read—and can scarcely remember—a note of music, jazz great Erroll Garner keeps popping up in the most unlikely places.

Taken out of the smoky night clubs and put on the concert trail four years ago, Erroll proceeded to amaze and enthral classical audiences with his wide key ranges, intricate stylings and deft improvisations.

Perched atop a copy of the Manhattan telephone book (a pillow "just don't ride with me"), he tamed the skeptical critics the same way he used to calm belligerent drunks in the jazz joints, by engulfing them with wave after wave of soothing, wonderfully inventive melodies.

Wins Acceptance

Garner won immediate acceptance as a jazz pianist of tremendous originality, an impromptu composer and arranger who never knows one minute what he will play the next, and tomorrow can scarcely remember what he played yesterday.

Sellout concerts in Europe and the United States brought him international acclaim and a flock of awards, including the coveted Grand Prix du Disque of the French Academy of Arts. Sales of "Concert by the Sea," "Other Voices" and a half dozen other albums set new records for Columbia, and when

On the show he plays a pop singer. The question arose: Why not become one?

To Finish College

So he cut four records, one of which he'll sing on the TV show next week. Dot records, which has promoted Pat Boone, Tab Hunter and other heartthrobs of the malt-shop set, liked his work and will release them.

Pat just finished his freshman year as a pre-med student at Loyola university here. This summer he'll help plug "The Young Land" and perhaps make another film for C. V. Whitney productions.

"I'm going to finish college," Pat vowed. "My father wants me to. Besides, I want to have a line of work in case I don't make the grade in movies."

stereo came along, he quickly established himself as the best selling artist both on tape and disc.

Garner popped up in another unlikely spot: in the concert camp of impresario Sol Hurok, alongside such classical artists as Artur Schnabel, Gregor Piatigorsky, Isaac Stern and havoc with the lesson book. "I was all the way up to lesson 12 when the teacher wanted me to go back to four. I couldn't remember how it went so I just blew it and gave up the lessons," said Erroll.

He got his professional start playing piano on a children's show on a Pittsburgh radio station, soon graduated to "rent parties" and playing in neighborhood clubs with a small combo. Now 35, Garner makes $100,000 a year and is constantly developing the unique creative talent that he regards as a gift. "The good Lord gave it to me and I'm trying to develop it."

Other Records

In another happy wedding of jazz and the classics, Antal Dorati conducts the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra in a brilliant performance of George Gershwin's "An American in Paris." The other side of this technically superb Mercury album features a symphonic treatment of "Porgy and Bess," arranged by Robert Russell Bennett, who does most of the orchestrations for Rodgers and Hammerstein.

London records offer "Music for Hand Jiving," the English teenage craze that is rapidly sweeping this country. Tommy Steele, the Four Jacks and a half dozen others help introduce this new dance form, which consists of using hands only to carry out a dance beat.

High School Band

Erroll first began crashing musical gates back in his native Pittsburgh when he got into football games free by pumping a tuba in the high school band. He oompah-ed in all the right places and never ran afoul of the bandmaster until a dent appeared one day in the big horn.

"I had to bring a dollar a week to pay for the tuba," Erroll recalls, "but he never did notice the dent in my musical education."

Erroll's mother tried to correct this dent by enrolling him for piano lessons, but his faultless ear for melody soon played

Lawrence Says:
Adams Case
May Complicate
Yule Giving

Gift Recipients
Have to Check
Motives of Sender

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Maybe it's going to be a tough Christmas throughout the land. For the old saying — "don't look a gift horse in the mouth" — has, in effect, now been repealed by a congressional committee. Hereafter every recipient of a gift presumably must figure out what the motive of the sender really is and, if in doubt, proceed at once to refuse the gift even though this offends the donor.

Also, the internal revenue service — which hitherto has not usually inquired into what the motive of the giver is when he deducts as expense, for tax purposes, something he spends for an actual or potential customer in business — will now be on the spot unless it establishes the true motive. The task will be to determine, moreover, whether a particular piece of hospitality did or did not have a relationship to the conduct of the business of the donor. It may require a staff of psychiatrists to establish what was in the giver's mind and also whether the recipient knew it at the time.

All this may be the aftermath of the Goldfine-Adams hullabaloo. Possibly the Democrats, who are responsible for raising the issue, will have to face the indignation of retail stores generally if the gift business takes a big dip in sales next Christmas.

Certainly many a citizen, especially in the business world, has been asking himself recently whether all the gifts that come from others from whom he buys products are properly motivated, and whether, if deducted as business expenses by the giver, this makes the recipient an unwitting party to a "conspiracy" to get a tax deduction.

Many a subordinate officer in a company will ask himself whether the entertainment he received did or did not prejudice his own award of contracts. He will wonder whether, if the internal revenue service records show it, this means the recipient, in effect, was bribed or at least improperly influenced.

As for government officials in both the executive and legislative branches, they will be confronted by a dilemma, too. Thus, if a businessman comes to Washington by train or by air or by auto to see his congressman or senator in order to try to get something done that affects his business, is this expense a legitimate deduction for tax purposes? Does it mean that the public official who benefited is compromised? The law prohibits any tax deduction for "lobbying" directed at congress. It says nothing about "lobbying" directed at the executive branch. There can, of course, be no penalty imposed for exercising the constitutional right of petition. The courts have never really defined the scope of "lobbying."

On the broad question of tax deductions, the statute says that "all the ordinary and necessary expenses incurred during the taxable year in carrying on any trade or business" may be deducted. What then is "ordinary" and what is "necessary"? Certainly if one's business is subject to governmental regulation, it becomes "ordinary and necessary" to keep in touch with officials who can supply needed information affecting one's business.

The motive of the giver of a gift might even be to seek an improper objective. This would not take away the right to a tax deduction. For even gambling establishments have been permitted, as a result of a recent supreme court decision, to deduct expenses incurred in rent and maintenance of their premises.

Goes to Washington

The fact that a citizen goes to Washington to curry favor with an official, whether elected or not, and incurs expenses for entertainment, or gives him expensive gifts, does not necessarily nullify a tax deduction. A dispute over a tax deduction, the amount of which has been fully disclosed by the taxpayer in his return, does not involve any criminal penalty. If the claimed deduction is disallowed, this merely means an additional tax is imposed.

As for the recipient of entertainment or of other forms of generosity, there would be more doubt if lavish gifts came from a stranger than from a close friend. It now is considered "imprudent" for public officials, whether or not elected, to accept gifts from anyone with whom they might someday be transacting government business. Even those who hope to be candidates for public office presumably must — in order to be on the safe side — start rejecting gifts.

Is it "imprudent" also for a man in business to accept gifts or hospitality from anyone whose orders for business purchases the giver is soliciting? In the business world, for the most part, this has not been considered improper. Maybe it will be so in the future. The whole custom of gift-giving at Christmas will be affected. Also the giving of theater tickets to hit shows or of choice seats at the World Series to important customers or potential customers will hereafter bring new quandaries and perhaps frustrations to generous-minded people in the world of business. Certainly public officials on the receiving end in the sacred precincts of federal, state or city governments now must really "look a gift horse in the mouth."

Woman's Estate
$129,424; Bulk
Willed to Son

Mrs. Anna Falatick Was Widow of Former Appleton Alderman

Mrs. Anna Falatick, who died at the age of 71 last Nov. 24, left an estate of $129,424, most of it to her son, W. R. Falatick, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

County Judge Stanley A. Staidl has approved a final judgment showing a $500 bequest to Appleton Memorial hospital in the memory of her late husband, W. H. Falatick, who worked for Thilmany Pulp and Paper company and was an Appleton alderman.

Falatick left Thilmany in 1936, when he was safety engineer. He died Aug. 1, 1944.

An additional bequest of $2,000 was left her son to start a trust fund for two grandsons and two granddaughters, children of her daughter, Mrs. Shirley Ann Enders, route 1, Menasha. The trust will be distributed in equal shares to each as they reach 21, the will instructs.

Mrs. Falatick lived at 826 E. College avenue. Her estate consisted of $14,500 in real estate and $114,924 in personal property.

Mrs. Enders filed a claim during the probate of the estate, claiming that her mother had misrepresented the value of her father's estate and claiming that Mrs. Enders' interests had been damaged to the extent of $50,000. The claim was settled, with the approval of Judge Staidl, for $18,000.

Debts and claims totaled $29,759, expenses $6,127 federal estate taxes $3,548 and the state tax $4,823.

Total estate available for distribution was $89,998, of which $87,498 went to the son

'No Time for Sergeants'
Good Comedy

Those who missed the stage play, "No Time for Sergeants," when it came to Appleton have a chance to see this hilariously funny comedy in movie form at the Rio theater.

Even those who did see it might catch up on the funny lines they missed. The two productions are so similar that moviegoers can be assured that the film follows closely the original production that made such a hit on Broadway.

Andy Griffith, who played the lead in the Broadway show, is the same affable but naive and stupid air force inductee in the movie version. Myron

Goldfine Airls Gifts To Federal Employees

Goldfine's New York office, Goldfine said.

"We have from records subpoenaed from the Pilgrim Trust Co. (of Boston)," Lishman said, "incontrovertible proof that Mr. Goldfine made it apparently a practice to have treasurers of the checks purchased which he used for payments to various employees both past and present in the White House and on the Hill."

"The Hill" was a reference to congress, coming from Capitol Hill.

Goldfine did not immediately identify any one on the list publicly except Kinnally.

But he protested that only a small portion of the three quarters of a million dollars' worth seized were 30 American sailors and marines from the Guantanamo base.

Wollam and Vice Consul Henry Wiecha were sent over the weekend to make contact with the rebels. Wiecha remained in the hills to continue negotiations for the 44 still held.

Wollam after his return indicated he hoped those still held would be freed soon. He added that he had seen a number of the men, including some servicemen, scattered in various small rebel camps. "They are all fine and in good health," he said.

Edward Cannon, 53, of Cornwall, Ontario, said he was present at the conference with Rauf Castro and the rebel leader—brother of Fidel—promised to stop kidnapping foreigners.

Others in the Moa group released yesterday were Henry Salmonson, 46, Portland, Ore.; Anthony Chamberlain, 40, a Gables, Fla.; Howard A. Roache, Watertown, N. Y.; and William Koster, 63, Akron, Ohio.

They looked weary after five days in captivity. Some were unshaven and most wore dirt-stained clothes. But they praised their captors, and Chamberlain said a rebel doctor even treated him for his chronic headaches.

Good Treatment

"We were treated fine all the time and made a lot of friends," said Salmonson.

Judging from his statements, the rebels apparently planned the kidnap campaign to dramatize their charges that the United States is helping President Fulgencio Batista's campaign to crush the rebels.

"They told us that bombs made in America were being used against them by the Cuban government," Salmonson said. "They showed us what they said were bomb fragments and also pointed out some huts that had been destroyed by fire."

The United States has denied supplying Batista's forces for the anti-rebel drive and canceled all arms shipments to Cuba on March 14. However, the state department said yesterday that 300 rockets had been sent to the Cuban government in May in exchange for a shipment of the wrong size delivered last October under the regular military aid agreement with Cuba.

Salmonson said they were kept on a coffee plantation screened from the air by foliage. He said they were taken on swimming trips and on jeep tours of the wilderness area.

"We had good food and enough of it, although it was all Cuban cooking, and beds listing gifts as business exchange," he said.

Goldfine said the bills got ing told about what's going on in political negotiations over us."

Alexander Gruettner, the East German foreign ministry official who ran the news conference, said the United States should sign a protocol similar to the one by which Belgium won release of a jet pilot who strayed into East Germany May 29. Washington signing of such a protocol might imply recognition of a Russian-imposed regime the west does not consider a legitimate government representing the East German people.

The American captives hooded at Gruettner's statement that East Germany is a sovereign state.

"You're a sovereign state, but not on the first night that we were in East Germany," shouted Capt. Frank Athanasion of Greenville, S.C. He said the East Germans first had turned them over to the Russians and "that is not the action of a sovereign state."

Russia Denies Interest

Gruettner retorted that the procedure was normal under East Germany's troop-stationing agreement with Russia.

"Yeah," responded Athanasion, "mutual agreement or were you getting instructions?"

The state department is demanding that Russia release the Americans under the Big Four occupation agreement making the Soviets responsible for protecting western interests in East Germany. Russia replies that this is a case for the East Germans to settle.

Kemper gave this account of what had happened to the nine: The helicopter was on a routine flight from Frankfurt to West Germany in a training area near the Iron Curtain. They got lost and their radio wouldn't work so they landed twice to find out where they were. Someone told them East Germany.

"We started again," Kemper said, "but the helicopter ran out of gas. The pilot was forced to land."

"We all got out of the aircraft and realized the importance of contacting authorities so that we could be returned quickly."

Waited For Police

"One of the officers went up to the highway and contacted the police. We waited until the police came. They turned us over to a Russian officer in a Russian camp."

After spending the night there, during which some of the Americans were questioned, the Russians returned them to the Germans.

The nine now are living comfortably by East German standards in a once-elegant 8-room villa on a quiet, tree-lined street.

They have the run of a large garden with a volleyball court, occupy three bedrooms, and have the use of dining and club rooms. Their entertainment consists of chess, cards and volleyball. They also have East German books and newspapers, East German television and communist films, although Kemper said no effort has been made to indoctrinate them. They have English Bibles to read and are allowed to receive letters from their families.

The soldiers can order whatever food they like and may have all the candy, cigarettes, beer and wine they want, but hard liquor is barred.

Postal Sales For Menasha Top $600,000

Backes Reports $31,000 Increase For Fiscal Year

Menasha — Postal receipts went over the $600,000 figure for the first time in the history of the post office, Postmaster John Backes reported today.

Postage sales and box rent collected for the fiscal year which just closed came to $601,317, as compared with $570,078 for the previous fiscal year.

Ten years ago the fiscal year's receipts were $222,817 while four years ago when Backes became postmaster, the receipts were $441,000.

The receipts do not include money orders.

Postage Due Fee

Backes also explained that new regulations require the post office to send on any mail not containing sufficient postage and to charge the recipient of the letter the amount of postage due plus a 5-cent fee.

This applies except where a quantity of items are being mailed by one sender, when the mail is returned to the sender for the additional postage, Backes explained.

2 Democrats Seek Offices

Enter Candidates For Courts Clerk, District Attorney

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh — The slate of candidates for county offices grew today with the announcement of two more candidates. Deadline for filing of nomination papers is Tuesday.

Latest candidates to announce themselves are James Patrick Grenisen of Oshkosh, for district attorney, and William Miller, route 4 Oshkosh, clerk of courts office.

Neither has opposition for those posts on the Democratic party but will face Republican incumbents in the November election.

A native of La Crosse, Grenisen received his bachelor's degree from Lorain college at Dubuque, Iowa, and then spent two years in the Korean theater. He then attended Marquette university and received his bachelor of law degree in June.

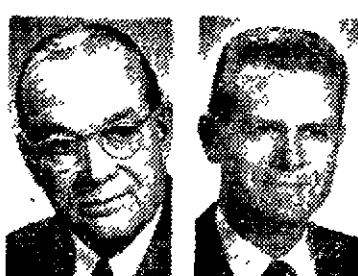

He has decided to locate his law practice in Oshkosh. Herbert Pitz, Oshkosh, candidate for the state senate post from Winnebago and Calumet counties, Wednesday filed his nomination papers at the secretary of state's office at Madison.

Bell Alters Stand On Regional Plan, Cites City Growth

Council Takes No Action on Proposal; Hansen Lauds Idea

Neenah — Mayor Chester Bell Wednesday night publicly changed his views on the benefits of regional planning.

Bell Hansen

The mayor, who voiced strong opposition to the proposal for a plan for all the Fox Cities on two separate occasions two weeks ago, told eight Neenah aldermen that a regional plan "may very well contribute to the welfare of our city 10, 15 or 20 years from now."

The mayor suggested that no formal action be taken until all 10 aldermen are present. Ald. Warren Sanders and James Dinius were absent from Wednesday's session.

The mayor said that his change of view in the matter was brought about largely as a result of a conversation with L. W. Empey, Green Bay district highway engineer, who showed him how intelligent planning can eliminate traffic problems in the future, as well as other problems.

'No Immediate Effects'

But, said Bell, the results of planning will not be seen overnight. "The benefits will not have the immediate effects that are expected by many. Most results will be manifested in the uncertain future."

He said he believed that many Neenah citizens have the mistaken opinion that the city's continued participation in the regional commission and its planning proposal will be reflected soon in changes to the city, and that this opinion was in part fostered by the strong proponents of regional planning.

The mayor urged the aldermen, 323 Garfield street, to discover what the citizens are thinking before they vote on the proposal. "Then," he said, "if we think we will get benefits sufficient to justify the money we will spend, it is our duty to vote for it."

"We owe it to ourselves, our city and future generations to decide wisely," he concluded.

Ald. Paul Hansen expressed strong approval of the regional planning proposal. "The figures cited for the expansion of the area are sufficiently impressive to make this desirable," the alderman said.

"If the 1958 city council goes along with the proposal, and goes so far as to commit the city for the 3-year expense of the plan, the councils of 1975, 1980 and 1985 will thank us," Hansen declared. "I am convinced that the tax load on future citizens can be kept on a level less than if there is no plan."

'Real Good Gamble'

Hansen said that if the city invests a relatively small sum of money (up to $22,000 over three years) it would be "taking a real good gamble for the community and the area."

"But," he added, "nobody should be under illusion that something is going to happen in a hurry. We are really working for our children and our children's children. I am definitely in favor of Neenah's participation in a regional plan as presented, and hope enough concur with me."

Ald. Leonard Hedberg indicated his approval of the proposal.

Period of Progress Sund to End 18 Years of School Board Service

Neenah — Eighteen years ago Roy J. Sund took his seat on the Neenah board of education.

That was 1940, the year in which most of this spring's NIS graduates were born. Monday afternoon Sund will retire from the board, marking the end of his official connection with a school system that under his direction has made the greatest progress of any time in its history.

Sund announced last winter that he would not seek reelection to the school board, after serving six terms, citing the increasing pressure of his business as the determining factor in his decision. He is a vice president of American Can company and general manager of its Marathon division.

In 1940 there were 2,078 pupils in the Neenah system, and 82 teachers. Last term there were 3,597 pupils and 123 teachers.

Seven New Schools

During this time seven new school buildings have gone up, new teaching methods have been adopted, other changes have been brought about.

The first new school in several decades, the Wilson school, went up in 1949, the year Sund was elected president of the board. Since then the Hoover school and Wilson addition were erected in 1954, the high school classroom wing in 1955.

the high school gym in 1956, the Taft school in 1957 and Hoover addition in 1958.

New educational programs, as well as extra-curricular activities, were introduced to the Neenah system under Sund's leadership.

Among the scholastic endeavors undertaken by Neenah schools are a complete science program on all grade levels, a high school English program designed to make college work

Winneconne School Area Budget Calls For Tax Rate Cut

$13.47 Proposed for Next Year, Down $1.26; Expenses of District Up $67,000

Winneconne — A cut of $1.26 in the tax rate for the Winneconne community school district to a total rate of $13.47, which alone is $40,000 more than was anticipated at school budget which will be submitted at the district's annual meeting July 14.

The amount to be raised through taxes is up but an increase in the equalized valuation of the district of almost $4 million has led to a lower proposed tax rate.

The rate proposed will be $13.47 for operations of the district to raise $268,965 and $1.17 for the building indebtedness to raise $25,584. The tax rate set last year was $12.80 for operations, raising $228,824, and $1.93 for building costs, raising $34,633.

Total budget proposed for next year comes to $526,447, up considerably from the $459,060 total anticipated for this last school year. Operation expenses are estimated at $437,082, which is $40,000 more than the actual costs for the school fiscal year which ended Monday.

Anticipated revenues, besides the tax collections, include $63,781 on hand as of Monday, which alone is $40,000 more than was anticipated at school budget which will be submitted at the district's annual meeting July 14.

Other major receipts include $27,000 in lunch receipts and $23,256 in state aid for transportation. Federal aid for the school lunch program and agriculture and home economics classes will come to $12,000 while $9,800 will come in county aid for elementary schools, based on $350 per teacher.

General control expenses of $14,200 is the same as for the last school year but instruction costs of $270,300 will be about $41,000 higher. The increase is largely in teacher salaries as there will be more teachers on the staff plus salary schedule increases to the present teachers.

Operation costs, such as the janitorial salaries, fuel, utilities and supplies will come to about $30,150, about the same as last year. Maintenance expense is estimated at $16,860, down somewhat from last year.

School Lunch program
Auxiliary services, which include the school lunch and health programs, were placed in the budget at $44,150, an increase over last year's budget of $5,000. The $4,300 earmarked as other disbursements, such as rent, insurance and interest, also is about the same as before.

Transportation costs will come to $48,000 and another $350 is planned for adult classes. A large drop is noted in capital outlay, down from $18,025 to $8,772, principally caused by the completion of the new addition at Winneconne and the new school at Winchester during the last year.

The school board anticipates a balance on hand as of June 30 of next at $63,781.

Garbage Collection
Menasha — Health department crews will collect garbage early Friday morning in those parts of the city where garbage is collected on that day.

H. O. Haugh, city health officer, said today. The garbage crews will start out very early in the morning to complete their route prior to noon.

Trinity Lutheran Members Choose Church Architects

Neenah — Carl Boettcher and Royden Ginnow were chosen as architects to direct the construction of a new Trinity Lutheran church at a meeting of the congregation Tuesday. Both are members of the church.

A new stewardship plan for the gathering of funds for the various projects of the congregation was adopted. The plan will go into effect with the 1959 fiscal year.

The proposed federal lunch plan was discussed and will be acted upon at the July 21 meeting.

Marathon Tax Manager Takes Canco Office

W. J. Steinmetz To be Succeeded by Vernon Waterman

Neenah — William J. Steinmetz, 907 Nicolet boulevard, manager of the tax department of Marathon division of American Can Company since August, 1956, is transferring to New York city as manager of the tax section of the comptroller's department of American Can Company.

In his new capacity, Steinmetz will coordinate all of American Can Company's tax work. This includes income, real estate, personal property, sales and use, franchise, social security and unemployment taxes.

He is being succeeded at Marathon by Vernon F. Waterman, 1315 W. Rogers avenue, Appleton, the division's senior tax accountant since December of 1956.

Steinmetz came to Marathon in July of 1955.

Waterman received a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Minnesota in 1949. He also is a certified public accountant and a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Legislature's First Problem To be Finance

Draheim Outlines Questions Facing Coming Session

Neenah — State finances and taxation will be the major problems confronting Wisconsin's lawmakers when the legislature convenes in January, State Sen. William Draheim told members of the Neenah Kiwanis club Wednesday.

The state is a service agency, the senator said, and as such the cost of service is increasing. "With the present tax rate, the revenue increase will not be enough to meet the additional demands put upon the state."

Only two courses are available, Draheim declared. One is to reduce state spending, and the other is to change the tax structure. The former alternative is almost impossible in certain fields, such as education and institutions, he said, because of the increasing population.

The other alternative might involve a higher surtax, possibly up to 60 per cent, on income taxes, or a change in the basic rate system which would eliminate the surtax altogether.

One other possibility is a sales tax, which is largely a matter of politics, he said. "Neither party has come up with a solution yet," Draheim declared. "The state already has a number of sales taxes, including taxes on liquor, cigarettes and gasoline."

Other problems that will face the new legislature are public education, water usage and diminishing water resources, and mental health. "Also on the calendar will be the programs of the governor-elect, the majority and minority parties, and 133 individual legislators," Draheim said.

The senator also reviewed the work of the legislature in the recent special session regarding unemployment compensation adjustment, the re-entry residency law, and urban renewal.

Fannon Retires As Marathon Pulp Sales Manager

Neenah — Ralph W. Fannon, pulp sales manager for the Marathon division of American Can Company since 1946, was honored this week at a retirement dinner at Marathon's guest house here.

Headquartered at Marathon's Rothschild plant, Fannon resides at Wausau and is a native of Appleton.

Russell C. Flom, vice president of Marathon's pulp and paper division, was host at the dinner which included among the present Roy J. Sund, Marathon division vice president and general manager, and John Stevens, American Can company vice president headquartered at Neenah.

Man Injured As Wall Falls

Neenah — Henry Martin, 53 2535 Comet street, Oshkosh, suffered compound multiple fractures to both lower legs when a concrete wall fell on him shortly before 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Martin was working with the house moving crew which is clearing away the sexton's house at Oak Hill cemetery for the new Highway 41 when the basement wall caved in, pinning him against a pier and another wall.

He was reported in good condition this morning at Theda Clark hospital where he was taken by the Neenah ambulance.

Charge Drivers After Separate Auto Accidents

Neenah — Mrs. Elmer Rehmer, 506 N. Center street, Appleton, forfeited a $14.20 bond to Neenah police after an accident at N. Commercial and Canal streets about 11:50 Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Rehmer was charged with failing to yield right-of-way after her auto collided with another driven by John L. Klein 36, 356 Naymut street, Menasha.

In another accident five minutes later in front of 121 W. Wisconsin avenue one driver was arrested and three passengers were told to see their family physician.

Garrett M. Carew, 20, 220 Kaukauna street, Menasha, was charged with driving with an expired driver's license after his car struck the rear end of an auto driven by Fred H. Krueger, 52, 917 Riverlawn street, which had stopped behind a truck at the mid-block crosswalk.

Complaining of minor bruises in the Krueger car were David Hartwig, 4, 432 S. Lake street, and Sandra Wingrove, 13, 128 Denhardt avenue. Miss Ruth E. Schmitzer, 610 Sixth street, Menasha, a passenger in Carew's auto, was also sent to her family doctor with minor bruises.

Carew is to appear in Neenah police court Saturday on the expired license charge.

Progress Marks Sund's Term on School Board easier, a summer typing program now in its fifth season, and a stepped-up mathematics program which will be installed next year.

The school art program, dormant for many years, was re-established about 10 years ago during Sund's term on the board, and the band program was enlarged two years ago. In 1956 a string orchestra was started for youngsters in the fourth grade which has grown and will continue to grow to include all grade levels.

Mentally Handicapped
A program for mentally handicapped pupils was installed under Sund's direction on primary, intermediate and high school levels. Youngsters with a low mentality are given special help under this program to aid them in using what they have.

The homebound instruction program for youngsters who are ill and will be away from school at least a month was provided, so that these pupils will not fall behind in their school work. Included in this is the "telephone classroom" instruction method, where a sick child hears his teacher over the phone at the same time his classmates are in the school room.

With Sund on the board the school system adopted the parent-teacher conference plan for evaluating a youngster's progress, and a cumulative record system that is the envy of most other Wisconsin school systems.

Bus transportation has been provided for high school students from outside the city, and guidance counseling has been provided for all students for the last 13 years.

Teacher Study
Under the in-service study program, installed under Sund's term on the board, all teachers in the system spend a year or more studying a specific problem. Conclusions have been reached on health education and moral and spiritual values. Now in progress is a study of education of much brighter-than-average pupils.

A long-range building program, a plan for future expansion, was devised under Sund's leadership. All new buildings since the Hoover school has been a part of this plan, and

City to Renew K-C Fire Protection Contract

Agreement Covers Company's Property in Town of Menasha Only in Drastic Blazes day night agreed to renew its fire protection contract for Kimberly-Clark corporation's property in the town of Menasha for one year for $2,000.

The contract covers the K-C main office, Lakeview mill and other smaller buildings only under drastic circumstances.

Under the agreement the company is to look first to the joint towns of Neenah and Menasha fire department and the Neenah fire department will respond only to a call from the rural department's fire chief.

The present contract expires July 31. When it was negotiated a year ago the finance committee of the previous city council indicated that it was considering dropping the agreement. There was no official talk of dropping it this year, however.

The new contract is so written that it is to be renewed annually unless either party gives the other notice of intention to terminate it.

Minor Fires Excluded
All minor fires are to be handled by the company's own firefighting crews or, if necessary, by the rural department. The city is to respond only in case of a severe fire which, said Mayor Chester Bell, it would do even if there were no formal agreement.

Ald. Leonard Hedberg said that the city firemen answered only one call to Lakeview property last year.

Ald. Paul Hansen said that the agreement does not affect the K-C fire insurance rates, which are already low due to the efficient fire fighting unit at the plant and the presence of the town fire department.

The contract was renewed on a unanimous voice vote of the eight aldermen present.

Aldermen agreed to send Fire Chief John Zick to the convention of the International Association of Fire Chiefs in Los Angeles Sept. 14 through 19.

Repair Machine

The council appropriated an indefinite sum between $400 and $500 for repair of the city's leaf loading machine rather than purchase a new machine, as called for in the 1958 budget. The city accepted the bid of the Wisconsin Lubricating and Oil company for gasoline for six months at a cost of 13.72 cents per gallon for regular, grade and 15 72 cents for ethyl. Final payment to Tenor Bros. Construction company of Algoma.

Mayor Alters View on Plan For Fox Cities

posals when he said "We have much to gain over the long haul."

Hedberg urged an informal discussion of the proposal some time after a regional commission meeting scheduled for next Wednesday in Appleton.

The mayor said that such a discussion might be a good idea and added that "There is no disposition on my part to rush this through. We ought to take all the time we want. The 'now or never' spirit seems to be fading and the idea seems to be growing among the regional planning proponents that it may take time."

As an afterthought Hansen suggested that the city's planning commission be revamped or reinforced to consider immediate city planning problems and to help integrate them with the regional plan.

future building is anticipated through 1963.

Roy Sund would be the last to claim all the credit for these advancements. Nevertheless, with 18 years on the board, nine as its chief executive, a large portion of it must fall to him.

Sandwich Fillings Need Special Care In Summer Months

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh — Care of sandwiches in hot weather is important since some fillings are more perishable than others and need special handling.

Miss Lois Klusmeyer, county home agent, advises not using non-acid, moist and mixed fillings such as egg or tuna salad unless the sandwiches can be kept in the refrigerator until serving time.

Fillings that keep best are jelly, peanut butter, cheese and pickled meats. Always make and pack them at the last possible moment.

Who Doesn't Spill Mustard At A Picnic?

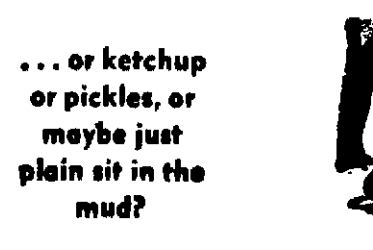

... or ketchup or pickles, or maybe just plain sit in the mud?

The family usually gets kinda' soiled at a picnic, anyway. Those summer cottons come home looking pretty wilted. This is no reason why the day after the 4th should be a horrible wash day for Mother.

Get those cottons to us. The clothes will come back sized and fresh and crisp like new.

The small cost is certainly worth the wonderful job done and the hot work saved.

Party Fun Midst Island Splendor

A gala Saturday evening was spent by members of the North Shore Golf club at a dinner dance held in the Hawaiian fashion. Members garbed in Hawaiian attire partied midst an "Island" decor and dined on Hawaiian foods. Chairmen of the dance were Mr. and Mrs. John Schmeier, Neenah.

A complete menu of Hawaiian delicacies was served to the guests. It began with Pupus (hors d'oeuvres) and Moana Banyan tree punch. Displayed on the buffet table were Kalua pig (whole roasted pig), spareribs Teriyake (spicy sauce), baked stuffed tenderloin of beef, Hawaiian chicken (comparable to chow mein), whole poached salmon, whole lobsters, and Shrimp Sea Island served in sea shells.

Vegetables were Ualas (sweet potatoes with citrus fruits and coconut), greenbeans with water chestnuts, and fried rice and almonds. To satisfy the sweet tooth, watermelon baskets with fresh fruit, niu (coconut) layer cake, and Hawaiian pie (pineapple and chocolate cream) were served.

The island motif was carried out with kerosene torches, outside, ti leaves, baby orchids, palm leaves, leis, and fresh fruits typical of Hawaii. These decorated walls, the buffet table, and dining tables.

Palm leaves, orchids, bananas and pineapples put North Shore party-goers in "the islands" mood. Around a dining table bedecked with orchids are Mr. and Mrs. David Ryan, Menasha, and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Dutcher, Appleton, general dance chairmen, left to right in upper photo. Chatting in front of a wall decoration of palm leaves and baby orchids are Bob Kimberly, Neenah, Miss Frances Wakeman, Neenah, Kenneth DuVall, Jr., Menasha, and Miss Sue Manier, Appleton, left to right in center photo. Wives' Housekeeping Brings Opposing Stands From Men

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN: I'm a man with a problem — my wife. She's good - natured, faithful, and a perfect mother. But she's a lousy house-keeper.
Our home is a junk - heap. Boxes, string, broken toys, crayons, old magazines, un-ironed clothes and pop bot- Ann Landers ties are all over. Living in a mess gets on my nerves. My wife is blind to it. When I complain she says "I'm not the housekeeper your mother was — so what? (I've never made the comparison.)
I love her dearly and we have a good life together, but must I put up with a house full of junk forever?—POPS

P. S. I work nights and she works days.
Thanks for the P.S. Pops. It helps to know your wife "works days". Do you think she should work nights, too? Some women can handle two jobs, but apparently your wife isn't one of those super-human horses.
There's no excuse for living in a rubbish-heap. A man is entitled to an orderly home. But in your case, it's obvious a choice must be made.
Hire a cleaning woman or tell your wife to pass up the extra income and stay home and keep house.
Please read on, Pops,—it's always nice to know what's cookin' in the other fellow's kettle.

DEAR ANN: Friends and relatives tell me I'm the luckiest man in the world—but I'm miserable. Maybe I'm nuts. Please tell me.
My wife and I are in our early 50's. We've been married eight years. This is the second marriage for both of us. She's a strikingly beautiful woman and I've never seen her when she didn't look like a magazine ad for cosmetics.
The trouble is, she's such an immaculate housekeeper I feel as if I'm living in a furniture show-room. When I come from work I must leave my shoes at the front door and put on house-slippers. If I smoke a cigarette she empties the ash tray at once. If I drop a newspaper on the floor, she picks it up immediately.

Last night did it. Our guests left at 1:15 A.M. She was up cleaning house until 3:00. At 2:30 I got annoyed and told her to come to bed. Her reply was "I couldn't sleep knowing cake dishes were in the sink." If she'd just leave a little dust around, I'd gladly write "I love you" in it. Please advise.—DIRTY PAUL
DEAR DIRTY PAUL: Your wife isn't crazy—she has a fix on orderliness. Let's call it a "personality quirk". If she wants to empty the ash-tray after each cigarette what do you care?
But by all means rebel against the house-slipper routine. No man should be required to remove his shoes upon entering a home—unless he works in a barn or happens to be visiting friends in Japan.

DEAR ANN: How does one go about meeting a man like "The Colonel" who wrote to you recently?
My first husband died young. My second was a well-camouflaged rotter. For the next five years I was too disillusioned to become interested in anyone.
I've never been one to go unescorted to places "where people meet". Only by sheer luck would one find a worthwhile companion in a cocktail lounge.
Churches have gone all out for "The Family Spirit". At women's club's I just meet more women. How about some advice to get me out of this rut?—G.G.
The only difference between a rut and a grave are the dimensions. Put yourself in new situations where you'll see new faces. Join an adult education class. Take up bowling, golf, horseback riding, skeet-shooting or stamp-collecting. Call the library and look into American Heritage or Great Books courses. Join the Grey Ladies for hospital visiting. Affiliate with a political group—next year is going to be a humdinger! Don't just sit there. DO SOMETHING!

Make Sure of Shade of Paint for Walls

Finding the right shade of the color for walls can be as much of a problem as choosing the color itself. How about the light in the room—is a pale color needed to make the room look lighter? If this is true, of course too dark a shade won't do. Will a deeper shade give the room more style than a pale tint? Then the color should have depth.

Don't believe your own eyes in the paint store, where you see color samples in the store light, not in the light in the room. Buy the paint in the color you like and in the shade you hope is nearly right, but don't put it on the walls without a tryout, and be prepared to make the color lighter or to darken it if it isn't exactly right. For the tryout, paint sample boards and set them up against first one wall, then another, to see how light or dark the color will look in use. Each wall catches the light differently, but you know how the color is affected and can alter it accordingly if you're guided by a tryout like this. (Copyright, 1958)

Our Children Some Fads Harmless, But Should be Watched

BY ANGELO PATRI
Fads and fancies belong to youth. They are the expressions of their longing to know what goes on in the adult world and be counted in.
They are the expressions of their shifting, changing growth; their choices between the usual and the intangible something that so far they have not been able to realize. Occasionally they dream of a wonderful place, of a heroic action in which they are the heroes. That is their release from the tensions of growth, and it is allowed them.
In their efforts to find satisfaction in an unsatisfactory world they come upon odd ideas such as wearing unusual, even weird, clothes, hats and ornaments. There is nothing serious with such oddities unless they are carried to extremes as when the unintelligent group adopt a uniform to bolster their failing egos. That is not done by the usual healthy-minded boy and girl.
Some of the fashions in dress these young people adopt do it. How can I tell her that she will be most welcome at Mary's wedding, but not to send a present? Could this be done without embarrassing her?

Answer: She shouldn't be embarrassed if you say to her, "I really mean it seriously. Sara, I don't want you to buy Mary a wedding present. She has more presents than she knows what to do with now. But we do want you with us on that day."

Returning Present

Dear Mrs. Post: My son was engaged to a girl for about three months when the engagement was broken. At the time of the engagement I gave my

The bidding (rubber bridge):
North East South West
Pass Pass 1 H Pass
1 S Pass 2 H Pass
4 H Pass Pass Pass

North went slowly over South's third-hand heart bid, responding with only one spade, but when South rebid his suit, North properly decided that his own 11 points in high cards figured to provide a good play for game, so he bid it directly.

West made the natural opening lead from his holding, the diamond king. South won, cashed the king and queen of trumps, and then led to dummy's trump ace. With the trump suit breaking normally, 3-2, everything seemed nicely under control.

Actually, everything was under control—but South fixed that. He led the spade queen and let it ride. West won, cashed the queen and jack of diamonds, and then did not make the mistake of continuing with another round of diamonds—he wisely shifted to a low club. That settled South's hash. He put up the club ace and led a spade to the ace, then laid down his two remaining trumps, but East held grimly to his 9-8 of spades, giving up his king and queen of clubs in order to do so, and South was helpless. When he overtook his own spade ten with the jack, hoping desperately for a spade break that would let him cash dummy's last card in the suit, he was in for a disappointment.

If South had been playing this hand at duplicate there might have been some (but not much) excuse for the handling of the spade suit, since a very favorable lie of spades would have produced an overtrick, but at rubber bridge his technique was extremely bad. The jam-up that developed was by no means unlikely to occur, and so, using reasonable foresight, South should have led a low spade to his own ten, or actually laid down the ace and ten of spades after drawing trumps. It was almost criminal to let the enemy knock out the club ace before South had assured himself of three spade tricks.

Holiday May Provide Own Fireworks

July 4 may start with a bang in the Fox Cities and Wisconsin but most of the noise will be in the form of thunderclaps.

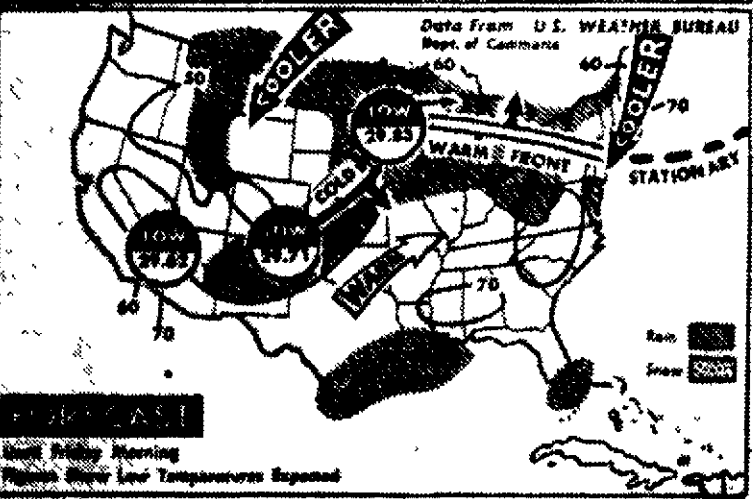

Continued scattered thunder-showers through Friday were predicted today by the weatherman. Temperatures again are expected to hit the 80s in most areas. The outlook for Saturday is for partly cloudy with little change in temperature.

Appleton had a high of 74 Wednesday according to the weather station at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company. The low overnight was 62 and the temperature at 11 o'clock this morning had climbed back to a warm 76. The wind at 10 o'clock this morning was at nine miles an hour from the northeast and the barometer reading was 30.03 inches.

Precipitation Wednesday which began at 9:50 in the morning and ended about 4:30 in the afternoon totaled .21 of an inch. The Fox Cities area experienced considerable fog-giness between midnight and 8 o'clock this morning.

Eau Claire and Grantsburg had the state high Wednesday with 87-degree readings. The low overnight was 51 at Superior.

Wisconsin Dells received 4.2-inches of rain between 3 o'clock in the afternoon and 7:10 in the evening Wednesday. Rain during the night was heaviest along the Wisconsin-Illinois border.

Scattered Showers and Thunderstorms are expected tonight in the northern Appalachians, Great Lakes area, upper Mississippi valley, central and northern plains, northern Rockies and the western Gulf coast. There may be showers in the southwest mountain areas and over the southern Florida peninsula. It will be cooler in New England. (AP Wirephoto)

Safety Council Warns Worst Time To Drive Is Coming This Weekend

Forty-five million blind drivers — momentarily blind, that is — will be on the nation's highways over the Fourth of July weekend, the National Safety Council said today.

The council explains that the average person blinks his eyes 25 times a minute and the blink lasts an average of one-fifth of a second. So, if a driver averages 40 miles an hour on a 10-hour motor trip, he will drive almost 35 miles of the trip with his eyes closed.

"Such statistics don't mean a thing," said Ned H. Dearborn, president of the council, "except that an accident can happen in the wink of an eye —

Suggests 3 Steps Toward Traffic Safety for July 4

Madison — State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Melvon O. Larson Tuesday suggested three steps motorists should take for safety's sake during the July 4 holiday period.

They were:

Make sure the car is mechanically safe; get proper rest before undertaking a trip; and be alert for warning signs, traffic signals and pavement markings.

Department records show 13 persons lost their lives on Wisconsin highways during the 1957 Fourth of July weekend. This was between 6 p. m. July 3 and midnight July 7.

In 1956 the July 4 holiday death toll was 9; in 1955 it was 8, in 1954 it was 11 and in 1953 it was 15.

Larson said the state patrol would be out in full force as would county traffic officers, deputy sheriffs and community officers.

as 371 persons who died in traffic over the Memorial day weekend found out too late.

"The toll dramatically points up the need for extra driving caution when traffic is at a peak. The fourth, which comes during the peak of the 3-month vacation season, usually brings more deaths from traffic accidents than Memorial day."

The most dangerous period for the holiday highway traveler is while en route to his holiday destination, rather than on the trip home. This was found, the council said, in a special study of holiday highway accidents made after 435 persons were killed in traffic last Labor day weekend.

The study also showed that:

Accident Causes

1. Speed was a factor in 71 per cent of the accidents.
2. Drinking was a factor in nearly half the accidents.
3. Accidents were most frequent early in the weekend.
4. Accidents were most frequent during evening hours.
5. Non-collision accidents were the most frequent type.
6. Eighty-two per cent of the accidents occurred in rural areas.
7. Single driver accidents were most frequent.
8. Victims usually were the drivers.

Lawrence's 4-Hitter Tops Braves, 1 to 0

Redlegs Return To Fourth Place In NL Race

By The Associated Press

You can file Brooks Lawrence in that thin folder titled "Bad Deals by Frank Lane." The big right-hander, plucked from the minors by Cincinnati after the St. Louis Cardinals had given up on him, has been the ace of the Redleg pitching staff since, running up a 41-26 record in 24 seasons.

Lawrence won his fifth in a row, all complete games, Wednesday night with a 4-hitter that returned the Redlegs to fourth place in the National league with a 1-0 decision over first-place Milwaukee.

The Braves' lead was trimmed to three games again, over St. Louis and San Francisco as the third place Giants defeated the Chicago Cubs, 5-2, in the only other NL game scheduled.

Lawrence, 33, the Bull of the Cardinal bullpen when he had a 15-6 record in 1954, was traded to Cincy by Lane, then general manager for the Cards, for pitcher Jackie Collum in January, 1956. He promptly won 19 for the Redlegs in their near-miss pennant rush of '56. Last year he was 16-13.

Now he's 6-3 with two shut-outs, giving up only one hit after the third inning at Milwaukee in a dandy duel with young Joey Jay, who lost with a 5-hitter. Jay owns a glittering earned run average of 1.29 for the four games he has started but has lost three of his four decisions.

The Braves have given Jay a total of three runs to work with in his four starts.

The Braves mounted only one real threat against Lawrence in a game held up for 32 minutes by rain. That was in the second inning when Joe Adcock led off with a single—one of only four hits off Lawrence.

Foxes' Gary Mitchell Loses 3-Hitter, 1-0

Unearned Run Wins For Bees

Burlington, Iowa — The Burlington Bees used an unearned run Wednesday night to score their seventh successive win over the Fox Cities Foxes.

Right-hander Gary Mitchell, who permitted only three hits, was the victim of the 1-0 heart-breaker. Lefty Ron Goerger, who won with 1-pitch relief help from Ed Donnelly in the ninth, allowed six safeties.

Commits 2 Errors
Third baseman Carlos Pascual, who was the Foxes' hero with a ninth inning home run Tuesday, went to the other end of the scale by committing two errors in the fatal fourth inning last night.

In the fourth, Manager Walt Dixon beat out a hit to third and took second when Pascual threw wildly past Bob Van Dyke. Fred Caviness walked. Jim Woods struck out. Goerger popped out. Russ Gragg hit a high pop fly toward third, and Pascual dropped it, allowing Dixon to count the big run.

The only other hits off Mitchell were doubles by Dixon in the second and Don Voigt in the third. "Mitch," who struck out six and walked three, retired the last 13 batters in order.

Mount 2 Threats
The Foxes mounted two threats. In the sixth with one out, Jim Hall and Bob Van Dyke singled. Pascual popped out, but Jim Nisewonger walked to fill the bases. "Chick" Payne popped up.

In the ninth, Payne hit a 1-out single and Don Cameron ran for him. John Marr walked in a pinch-hitting role. Relief ace Ed Donnelly made his twenty-fifth appearance and put out the fire with one pitch. Don Dantoni hit into a Loudenback-to-Dixon double play.

It was a threatening night, but no rain fell during the game.

The teams are scheduled to meet again tonight, with the Foxes' Rene Nodarse pitching.

Grid Hall of Fame Berth Is Sought For Mark Catlin, Sr.

'Ziggy' Thompson Opens Drive On Behalf of Chicago, Vike Great

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

A campaign to win the late and great Mark Catlin, Sr., a place in the National Football Hall of Fame is under way. A liden "Ziggy" Thompson, former Appletonian and one of Catlin's most distinguished football proteges, has started the "nomination" ball rolling. Thompson will make the for-teams (1902-05) and won All-American recognition. He came to Lawrence college in 1909 and coached 13 years out of the next 19, directing the Vikes to six championships and masterminding a number of wins and near wins over big schools that Lawrence played at the time.

It is both as a player and coach that this lasting recognition for Catlin is sought. The National Hall of Fame, which is located on the Rutgers campus, has already been opened to 110 players and 43 coaches from football's long and rich history. Several new selections are made every year.

Thompson, who starred for Appleton High school and gained fame as a Lawrence college end before World war I, is currently serving as divisional director of health and education at Wayne State university, Detroit. His last prior post in a distinguished career of athletic administration was in the navy. He was in charge of physical training and recreation at Great Lakes.

Among other outstanding football names who played under Catlin include Lisle Blackburn and Eddie Kotal.

Kroner Fans 15 As Winners Stay Tied for Lead

Green Bay — Gary Kroner struck out 15 Kimberly batsmen while allowing six hits as he pitched the Green Bay Junior Legion team to a 9-5 win over Kimberly in a Fox Valley Legion league tilt here Wednesday night. Kroner walked four in going the route.

Green Bay remained in a tie for first place with Fond du Lac, which also won.

The winners scored three runs in both the fourth and fifth innings to break the game wide open. Green Bay scored in the fourth, with two out, on a walk, two singles, and an error on Kimberly third baseman Lamers. In the fifth, three singles and a double by Kroner did the damage.

Siebers drove in Kimberly's first run in the second. The losers scored twice in the fifth, as Jim Peerenboom scored when Jeff Vander Velden was safe on a fielder's choice, and VanderVelden scored on Dave Minten's long fly. Kimberly scored two more in the ninth on Vander Velden's single with the bases loaded.

Marv Smits started on the mound for Kimberly, but was relieved by Vander Velden in the eighth. Smits allowed eight hits and three walks, and struck out three. Vander Velden walked one, struck out one, and gave up two hits.

Cedar Rapids, Winona Split

Davenport Dumps Bluejays for Initial Second Round Win

By The Associated Press
Cedar Rapids had a 3-game winning streak snapped at Winona Wednesday night and dropped into a first-place tie with Burlington in the Three-I league.

Home runs by Larry Klick and Horace Garner paced Cedar Rapids to an 11-3 victory in the first game of a double-header but Winona bounced back to take the nightcap, 8-6, behind the 14-strikeout pitching of Ernie Nevers. Winona's Mel Wright had six hits in seven times at bat for the night. Burlington took a 1-0 triumph over Fox Cities.

Davenport, the first-half champion moved into the victory column after two defeats by spilling Green Bay, 4-1. Bobby Sagers and Chuck Lindstrom homered for Davenport. Green Bay couldn't get much mileage out of 11 hits, including two by Frank Howard, who boosted his average to .342.

A rural Menasha youth received two scalp cuts early this morning when he dove into the Fox river at Lutz park and hit bottom.

Seek Hall of Fame Berth For Mark Catlin, Sr.

players he coached at Lawrence appeared at the Mark Catlin day on the Vike campus in November, 1954. Among those present were Wylie Sampson, Milwaukee; Bill Relz and Eugene Colvin, Appleton; Dr. Walter Tippet, Green Bay; Earl Tippet, Largo, Fla.; Emory Rogers, Marion; Leonard Stoll, Sheboygan; Alex Hunter, Racine; Charles Shelley, Mattoon; Bill Kiessling, Lake Mills; Earl Parsons, Menomonee Falls; Ralph Owens, Winthrop Harbor, Ill.; and Charles Irish, Pontiac, Mich.

"Ziggy" Thompson is seeking to enlist the aid of as many of these as possible as well as such other Catlin-trained Vikes as Appleton's Charley Pond; Gerhard Kubitz, Manitowish; and Elmer Abrahamson, who operates a resort in northern Wisconsin.

Pond, who played fullback on Catlin's 1915-16 teams (and won all-conference honors both years) says he will be happy to help the worthy campaign along. Pond says he remembers Catlin as an outstanding coach and one who "knew how to handle men." He says Catlin was a hard taskmaster and a stickler for conditioning — a factor which helped the Vikes show up so well against major schools such as Wisconsin and Michigan.

Teams Well Conditioned
Catlin wouldn't allow his charges to wear shoulder pads or helmets, even though their opponents had the benefit of this extra protection. But, Pond recalls, there were no serious injuries. Not only were the Vikes well conditioned but they were schooled in the Catlin adage, "Hit the other guy harder than he hits you."

Colvin wholeheartedly supports the Hall of Fame idea and says that in his letter he will make a special point of the tremendous showing Lawrence made against strong and prohibitively favored University of Wisconsin teams. In 1911, the Vikes tied the Badgers, 6-6 on two tied kicks.

In 1912, when mighty UW won the Big Ten title, Lawrence held it to its lowest victory margin of the season—13-0. That same year, the Badgers beat Illinois, 55-0, for example. (As late as 1924, in the Kotal era, Catlin's team came close to dumping Iowa, losing only 13-6. Lawrence failed several times within the 5-yard line.)

Colvin, who played at both quarterback and end in 1911-12-13, admits that Catlin made the players work awfully hard, but he had the faculty of getting each one to go all out for him.

Retza, who played right end for Catlin's team in 1916—the last year the Vikes beat Marquette, says he remembers Mark's inspirational leadership best. He says Catlin possessed a talent for instilling fight into the team and getting the players to work together. Retza is much in favor of the Hall of Fame chance for Catlin and plans to send a message to the foundation.

Finest Hour
Catlin's finest hour of many shining hours as a player came on Thanksgiving day, 1905, in Chicago. His crunching tackle of a Michigan ball carrier (Denny Clark) produced the safety that enabled the Maroons to end a 5-year Wolverine unbeaten streak at 56 straight games, 2-0. The safety, which gave Coach A. A. Stagg a treasured victory over Fielding Yost, has become one of football's most storied plays.

The game between the two collegiate football titans was vividly recalled three years ago when Catlin and other members of the '05 team had a "golden" reunion with Stagg. Catlin's grid glory wasn't

Estherbrook Farm Sold

Lawrence Radloff, Roy Winter Plan Residential Lots

Sale of the Estherbrook farm, often mentioned as a possible site for the proposed south side swimming pool, was revealed today.

Lawrence D. Radloff, 1523 Palsades drive, said he and Roy Winter, 2001 N. Rankin street, purchased the tract of about 21 acres from John Court, 1320 S. Outagamie street, this week.

He and Winter have formed South Meadows, Inc., a real estate firm, Radloff said, and plan to plat the land for residential lots.

The parcel is west of S. Kern avenue and north of a row of houses on E. Fremont street. Winter said the price was about $50,000.

Plats Soon
Winter also said he expects to submit plats to the city council for approval within a short time.

Winter acknowledged it was possible the owners might sell part of the land to the city for a pool site, or other use, but that such is not the intention.

Sale of the farm leaves only Interlake park of possible pool sites which have been mentioned and not subsequently discarded. The pool committee is awaiting word from Consolidated Water Power and Paper company about its plans for the park.

Sen. and Mrs. Proxmire Become Parents of Son

Washington — A son was born today to U. S. Sen. and Mrs. William Proxmire at George Washington hospital here. His parents named him William Wayne.

The baby weighed in at four pounds and 12 ounces. Both he and his mother are doing fine, the senator's office reported.

Chicago Grain

Chicago — Wheat No. 1 red 1.84; No. 1 red garley 1.69; Corn No. 2 yellow 1.39. Oats No. 1 white 69; No. 2 soybeans.

Soybean oil 9; soybean meal 63.00-65.50.
Barley: malting choice 1.10-1.20; feed 83-1.09.

The Midwest, and some of his twists were completely new to this section.

Catlin was the first to introduce the forward pass at Iowa. This grid weapon was devised about 1906.

Catlin's teams was among the first Midwest coaches to make extensive use of the spread plays originated by Stagg. It took some doing to work passing plays into the offense since the ball used at the time was considerably more rounded and difficult to throw. It was constructed primarily for kicking. One of Catlin's first uses of the spread at Lawrence resulted in a surprise touchdown against the Vikes' arch rival, Ripon.

Another of Catlin's new techniques was a direct pass from the center to the runner or passer. Catlin also kept the opposition guessing with such other devices as "guards back" and a cross buck play from the sidelines.

Catlin got the maximum out of comparatively small squads: and strong, smart teams were his trademark.

British Museum Has Exhibit Of Old Sequoia Tree Section

BY RAMON COFFMAN
One exhibit in the British museum is a section of a tree which grew in California. The section came from a sequoia; it has a width of 16 feet and a weight of nine tons.

If you studied that exhibit, you would observe hundreds of rings. Each ring in a tree marks a new year of growth. A count in this case indicated that the tree was 1,341 years old when it was cut down.

That tree started growing about 100 years after the Anglo-saxons first landed on the island now known as Great Britain. It was 416 years old when William the Conqueror invaded England.

It was 942 years old when Columbus made his first voyage across the Atlantic. It kept growing 400 years longer, then was cut down.

Q. Have older sequoias been studied?

A. Another giant sequoia was cut in the past century, and was found to be about 3,200 years old. It dated back to a time when Egypt still was the world's leading country. That was hundreds of years before the city of Rome started to grow up alongside the Tiber River.

Laws have been made to protect sequoia trees. Except in some private holdings, they are kept standing until, or unless, they topple over after reaching extreme old age.

Q. Which are larger, the giant, scrapbook.

Woman Escapes Injury In Attempt to Pass, Collision With Truck

Mrs. Gertrude Vandenberg, 54, route 4, Appleton, escaped injury Wednesday when her car traveled about 130 feet in a ditch, returned to the road for about 18 feet and collided with a truck.

County police said Mrs. Vandenberg tried to pass a truck driven by Emil A. Eake, 52, 328 Abbey avenue, Menasha, when her car left County Trunk E. south of Highway 41. Mrs. Vandenberg said when she got back on the road, she again tried to pass and the collision resulted.

A semi-trailer truck loaded with 1,000 10-pound boxes of cheese left Highway 54 about two miles east of New London Wednesday and ended on its side in the ditch. County police said the semi's wheels ran off the road onto the soft shoulder. Police estimated damage to the tractor unit at $1,000.

City Awaits Court Trial On Insurance

The city of Appleton is withholding action on group life insurance for signed-up employees until after the contract legality question is settled. Mayor or Clarence A. Mitchell said today.

Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell Wednesday, in denying Arthur Coffey, Appleton insurance man, a permanent injunction against the contract, set Aug. 11 for a court trial.

The trial, if Coffey presses his suit, would answer the question of whether the city may legally sign a contract for group life with Equitable Life Assurance company.

While the city has entered a preliminary agreement with Carl Sherry, Equitable agent, it has not authorized the mayor, and city clerk to sign a contract. City Atty. Don L. Jurek has advised against signing until Coffey's question is settled, Mitchell explained.

Not a Ruling

Jury's ruling, it was said, points out that the judge's decision on the injunction has no bearing on the legality question.

Mitchell also reported the council must transfer money from the contingent fund to pay for the city's share of the premiums and authorize the clerk to deduct the employees' share from payrolls, actions which were held up by the injunction, before a contract can be put in force.

About 250 of the city's 268 employees have signed for the $2,000 group life policies. Equitable will receive $2.72 per month per employee, of which the employee will pay $1.20 per month.

State Lawmakers Split Vote 6-2 on Appropriations

Washington — Members of the Wisconsin house delegation today split their votes 6 to 2 on final passage of the mutual security appropriations bill which was approved on a vote of 253-126.

Voting for the bill were Reps. Donald E. Tewes, Clement J. Zablocki, Henry S. Reuss, Melvin R. Laird, John W. Byrnes, Lester R. Johnson.

Voting against it were Reps. Gardner R. Withrow, and Alvin E. O'Konski. Not voting was William K. Van Pelt.

Earlier, the members split four to five on a motion to send the bill back to committee to increase funds for defense support from $700 million to $775 million. The motion was defeated 214 to 165.

Voting for the increase were Reps. Tewes, Zablocki, Reuss and Johnson. Voting against it were Reps. Withrow, Van Pelt, Byrnes, Laird and O'Konski.

First U. S. Diplomat To Use Moscow Radio For July 4 Address

Moscow — Llewellyn Thompson, Jr., tonight becomes the first American ambassador to make a July 4 address on Moscow radio and television.

The Soviet government long has invited communist and even neutralist and some western ambassadors to use Russian broadcasting facilities on their national days.

But today's invitation, which came shortly before Thompson was due on the air, was the first ever given to a U.S. envoy for American Independence day. Thompson will speak in Russian.

Star Norma Shearer's Mother Dies at 85

Hollywood — Actress Norma Shearer's mother, Mrs. Edith Fisher Shearer, 85, died Wednesday at a sanitarium in suburban Garden Grove.

Death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage.

In addition to Miss Shearer, Mrs. Shearer leaves a daughter, Mrs. Athole Hawks and a son, Douglas, chief of research and development at MGM studios.

Share Prices Up Slightly

Advance Into New Ground for Year In Active Trading

New York — The stock market moved slightly higher in fairly active trading early this afternoon, pushing into new high ground for 1958.

Chemicals and selected issues did well. Rails advanced on average. Tobacco was soft as the industry awaited another health report on tobacco next week.

Gains of key stocks went from fractions to about a point. Secondary issues made wider gains. Losses among tobacco and other issues went from fractions to 1 or 2 points.

Despite the 3-day July 4 holiday, trading was at a faster rate than Wednesday, at least in early hours. There was nothing in the general business and economic background to spur stocks.

Alaska Juneau continued in demand and was up a good fraction. Reichhold Chemical also was ahead about 2 points.

The tobacco group was nervous. American Tobacco fell about 2, U.S. tobacco a sizable fraction and Lorillard more than a point.

Fractional gains were made by American Telephone, Southern Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio. Gulf Oil rose about a point and Goodrich took a similar loss. Steels and motors showed slight movement.

Chemicals were the best of the industrial group. Dow was up about a point.

U.S. government bonds rose moderately.

Council Roundup

Aldermen Deny Rezoning of W. Bell Lots

Appointments of Five to School Committee Approved

Rezoning of two lots at the northwest corner of W. Bell avenue and N. Bennett street was turned down again Wednesday by the city council by a 16-to-4 vote.

Lester Rucks, 2401 S. Jefferson street, owner of one lot, told the council neighbors no longer are opposed but Ald. William F. Ertl reported some apparently changed their minds and are opposed.

Rucks, like Carl Schmitt, Kaukauna, former owner of the lot, sought rezoning from single family to 2-family district.

The council turned down Schmitt March 5 after opposition from neighbors but granted Rucks' request June 19 upon recommendation of the planning commission. Wednesday's refusal came after the public hearing.

The four who voted in favor were Aldermen Thomas K. Schneider, Allan Sonkowsky, Alvin Tews and Harvey Priebe, Sr.

School Committee

Appointment of Aldermen Alvin Tews, William F. Ertl, R. P. Groh, Mrs. Dorothy Stillings and Clarence Lautenschlaeger to the school advisory committee was confirmed. Tews was named chairman. The committee will meet with the board of education on school land and building problems.

Sewer Extended

The W. Lindberg street trunk sewer was ordered extended from N. Erb street to N. Richmond street. The sewer will open thousands of acres at the northwest corner to possibilities of sanitary sewer service when it is complete.

Withdraws Project

Ald. Douglas Ogilvie withdrew the street committee's plan to replace curbing on the north side of E. Washington street between N. Meade street and N. Rankin street. He said property owners weren't willing to pay 50 per cent of costs. The curb was damaged by a city contractor last year.

Approve Lights

Aldermen Austin Tucker and Donald Mueller voted against permitting the mayor and clerk to sign an agreement for operation of the E. Wisconsin avenue and N. Morrison street stop-go lights. The lights will operate from 6 to 9 o'clock in the morning, 11 o'clock in the morning to 1 o'clock in the afternoon and 2:45 in the afternoon to 6 o'clock at night. The rest of the time they will flash caution on E. Wisconsin and stop on N. Morrison. Nearby merchants wanted the lights to operate round-the-clock because of children crossing to and from St. Therese Catholic school.

N. Oneida

Plans were ordered for a concrete pavement on N. Oneida street from Highway 41 south to the end of the present curb and gutter improvement.

Widen Corners

A $2,200 corner widening project involving S. Walnut street intersections with W. Sixth street and W. Eighth street was approved.

S. Telulah

The engineering department was instructed to make provisions in grading and graveling of S. Telulah avenue from E. Fremont street to E. Calumet street for eventual concrete surfacing. The usual special assessment for graveling is $2 a foot, not 96 cents a foot as previously reported. The street and sanitation committee is recommending a lessening of the gravel assessment because less gravel will be used than ordinarily.

Power Company

The city clerk was instructed to ask Wisconsin Michigan Power company to replace main work promptly. Street committee suggested the company hire other contractors to do the follow-up work which now takes from six months to a year.

Canway Hotel

John Conway was given permission to install two driveways off E. Washington when he builds the proposed 75-room addition to the Conway hotel. It will be used for a drive-in registration desk, Conway said.

Vets Houses

Notice was ordered sent owners of four former veterans housing units to have them removed from the W. Spencer street housing site by Aug. 1 or they will have to pay $25 a month rent for the space.

Parking Lot

The street department was ordered to raze the building on the Louis Lohman-Earl Bates property, at the northeast corner of S. Allen street and E. Kimball street. The city completed purchase of the property for a parking lot Tuesday. Street crewmen are to do the work when they can.

Relay Sewer

Relaying of the E. Taft avenue sanitary sewer from S. Oneida street about 475 feet east was ordered. The city will pay all costs, including those from installing laterals to the property line.

Widen N. Lawe

Widening of N. Lawe street from E. Wisconsin avenue to E. Summer street was ordered. The street is 32 feet wide and will be 41 feet wide. The action is expected to eliminate traffic congestion.

Ald. Homer Malmstrom introduced a resolution calling for a parking ban on the west side of N. Lawe from E. Wisconsin to E. College avenue.

Deny License

A bartender's license was denied David Kasuboski, 317 N. Appleton street, after Ald. Harold Hannemann, chairman of the licensing committee, reported Chief of Police Walter J. Hendricks was opposed.

Motor Boat Law

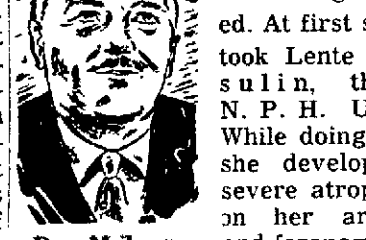

The motor boat law, providing a 6-mile-an-hour speed on the Fox river inside the city, was passed for the last time.

Scatter Insulin Shots When They Cause Wasting of Fat

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our daughter developed diabetes at the age of 14. She is now 16 and appears healthy and well - regulated. At first she took Lente insulin, then N. P. H. U40. While doing so she developed severe atrophy on her arms and forepart of her legs, so by direction of the physician I administered the injections in her hips. Atrophy developed there and we changed to P.Z.I., and this wasting away stopped, but now, after a year, we cannot see any improvement in the arms and legs.—Mrs. V.C.

The above is an excellent description of what is called lipodystrophy, or fatatrophy—wasting away of the fat tissues. It occurs chiefly in females, or in little boys. The cause is not known, nor is the reason why it affects some people and not others. Anyway, the fat literally disappears, leaving a hollow spot. This is especially distressing, of course, when wearing bathing or sports clothes. However, here are some useful suggestions. Scatter the shots. Don't take them all in the same area. (This applies to all people taking insulin.) The abdomen can be used for the injections.

Insulin Temperature Some physicians believe that cold insulin is a factor. In view of this, I consider it wise to have the bottle of insulin at room temperature, rather than using it right out of the refrigerator. (Extra supplies of insulin that have not been started should be kept cold, of course.)

Another trick is to make deeper injections. Still another is changing the type of insulin—just as Mrs. V.C. did, with success. Furthermore the concentration of insulin can be varied, using U 80 instead of U 40 strength; this means a smaller volume of fluid is being injected although the number of units of insulin remains the same. (Use a U 80 syringe with the U 80 insulin.)

In severe cases, highly-concentrated insulin may be injected into the skin layers—a very shallow injection—with success.

In general these hollow spots tend to disappear in time, but it may take two or three years for the fat to reappear.

Allergy to Novocain

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can a person be allergic to novocain used in local anesthetics or for dentistry? If so, what is the reaction? If one had penicillin shots several years ago and had no allergic affects at that time, would one be allergic at any time thereafter?—Mrs. C.K."

Yes, some people are sensitive to novocain. The effects could be rash, itching, swelling, possible nausea. The consequences vary. As to your question about penicillin, yes, it is possible to develop a sensitivity, or allergy, to it after having

Booster Game

The city band was ordered to play for a Foxes' booster night planned July 31 by the Appleton Elks club. Proceeds from the game will go to veterans' hospitals, the Elks told the council.
